CONFIDENCE RETURNS TO WALL ST.

HOOVER DEMANDS TARIFF

Robinson Blames Administration For Collapse

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Now that the worst of the stock market debacle is believed over, official and political Washington began today to emerge from the storm-cellars, appraise the damages, assay the results and peer as best it can into what the immediate future holds.

There were three aspects of the situation today that particularly engaged the attention of the legislative and executive branches of the government.

1.—As a result of the crash, which followed an extended period of high, wide and handsome public speculation, it is now considered certain that a real effort will be made in the approaching regular session of congress to place a curb on speculative activities. A number of senators are working on legislative methods to accomplish this. Among them is Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury, who favors the institution of a special tax, say 5 per cent, on stocks that are turned over within a sixty-day period.

2.—There is real concern felt at the treasury and in administration quarters generally over the enormous shrinkage of governmental income that inevitably will result from the collapse of stock prices. Millions of anticipated profits have been wiped out, and this will automatically be reflected in income tax returns.

3.—The Democrats are going to make as much political capital out of the calamity as they possibly can, with an eye to next year's congressional elections, and the national election of 1932.

Evidence of this latter activity was speedily forthcoming today on the heels of the market's semi-stabilizafion.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, who as Governor Al Smith's running mate last year, writhed under the calm and superior prosperity claims of the Republicans, came out today with a statement in which he laid a major share of the blame for the collapse directly at the door of the Coolidge-Hoover administration.

Robinson gave fair warning that the Democrats are going to shout from a thousand stumps in next year's campaign, "Where is your prosperity now?"

"If," said Robinson, "the foundation of the belief of ruined investors was faith in the strong position of American industry it is also true that the prophets and high priests of American prosperity, represented by no less personalities than a former president of the United States (Coolidge), the secretary of the treasury (Mellon), and a former secretary of commerce (Hoover) now president, contributed, by unduly and repeated optimistic statements, to the creation of enthusiastic if not frenzied ventures in stocks.

"The good faith of these gentlemen may not be impugned except insofar as their zeal is justly attributed to the desire for that partisan political advantage which is so often derived from real or fancied business conditions.

"Had the Democratic party been in power when the stampede on the stock exchange occurred, the ruinous results would have been charged by Republican leaders to financial policies of the administration."

Robinson's statement was ironical with reference to how the administration met the crisis.

Whatever the cause for it, he said, "it must be admitted that neither the president nor the secretary of the treasury (the greatest, we are told, since, Hamilton) nor any other agent or leader of the administration, took adequate steps to prevent the collapse which they should have known must follow the orgy of speculation, stimulated by their utterances."

After expressing hope for speedy recovery and readjustment, the Democratic leader concluded with the hope also "that in the future prudence and sound judgment will predominate; that political authorities will refrain from fanning speculative enthusiasm into a flame and then refusing to quench the flame before it has consumed so much of the wealth and destroyed so much of the happiness of blameless and innocent people."

Not much clearer indication could be given of the Democrats' determination to make the most of the situation.

One other result of the market crash was seen today—it has apparently increased the administration's determination to try to force the tariff bill to enactment. President Hoover has sent word to administration leaders at the capitol that he wants the tariff bill passed as soon as possible. Hitherto, the White House has preserved silence regarding the bill.

SCARLET FACES?

Corrected by Elsie Ferguson, the star, for speaking her lines too quickly, the little Georgia girl slowed up at the next performance until she reached the climax of the act. Here she calmly, and with much nonchalance, blew a puff of cigarette smoke in the star's face.

The next night an understudy played Miss Council's part.

EXPECT CLEMENTEL WILL IGNORE PARTY IN NAMING CABINET

Will Sweep Aside Party Lines In Filling Posts

PARIS, Oct. 31—Senator Etienne Clementel today was expected to take the bull by the horns and reveal a new cabinet containing men he thinks will most strengthen his government, without regard for party affiliations.

Although theoretically a member of the Radical-Socialist party, M. Clementel has never let himself be ruled by the dictates of any party.

He is sufficiently radical in some of his views to gain the goodwill of a good many members of the Left parties, yet his radicalism does not go so far as to make him unacceptable to the right, or conservative groups.

His government, it is believed, will, if formed, attempt to carry on the financial policy of former Premier Poincare, which proved so successful, while developing the foreign policy of former Premier Briand, with its promise of peace and security.

M. Briand, himself, is expected to take the portfolio of foreign minister in the new government, while Clementel is expected either to take the finance ministry himself or give it to Andre Cheron.

The other posts, it is expected, will be sprinkled among the Radical and Center parties. This should bring to Clementel at least the partial support of all parties and enough votes in the chamber of deputies to insure him a stable administration, it is believed.

Following the futile effort of M. Daladier to form a cabinet, it is hardly believed the Left parties can afford to refuse any post offered them by Clementel. The inability of the Left parties to agree among themselves when M. Daladier was trying to form the cabinet made it appear certain today that Clementel's cabinet will have a government far less radical in complexion than was thought possible a week ago.

One thing appears certain. If Clementel is successful in his attempt to form a new government, there will be little or no change in France's policy on disarmament and reparations.

ARTIST PEEVED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Declaring it published a picture and article in which it was stated he wore a beard to "confuse people," Albert Hirschfield, artist, has entered a $100,000 libel suit against the theatrical weekly, Variety, it was revealed today.

CLEVELAND PAYING TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF SENATOR BURTON

Crowds Pass Through Music Hall To View Remains

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31. — A silver-gray casket, bearing the body of Ohio's revered Senator Theodore E. Burton, accompanied by relatives and friends and a governmental cortege, arrived in Union Station here at 8:45 a. m. today.

Reverently, through long lanes of bare headed, solemn-faced persons, who stood in morning mist from gloomy, overcast skies, the casket was slowly walked to the funeral car in which, under military escort, it was taken to Public Hall to be given the tribute of the peoples of a great state.

The body of Senator Burton was brought here to lie in state for three hours in Public Hall amid the scenes of his early political struggles, and finally to be placed in its last resting place at Lake View Cemetery in a plot of ground only a few yards from the grave of his life-long friend, the late ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick.

A host of local, state and federal dignitaries—life long friends of the veteran statesman—and thousands of awed spectators had stood in the drizzling rain for an hour or more to pay homage.

As the funeral special pulled into the Union Station, the first to alight were the immediate family of the deceased senator, followed by a score or more of United States senators and congressmen, designated by their respective houses to represent them at the funeral.

An awe-inspiring silence pervaded as the casket was lifted from the train—national guardsmen and police stood at attention and saluted, the throng bared their head sand bowed in mute tribute as it was carried and placed in the funeral car.

The funeral procession, led by an escort of soldier sand mounted police proceeded slowly to the Public Hall, where the body will lie in state until 1:15 p. m. to receive tribute from thousands of Clevelanders.

Promptly at 9:30 a. m. the doors of Music Auditorium at Public Hall were thrown open. Then began a seemingly endless parade of thousands of Clevelanders and Ohioans—rich and poor man, alike—before the flag-draped casket which rested on the foyer in Music Hall.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF LIQUOR FAVORED

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31.—Governmental control and sale of liquor had the approval of the voters of the province of Ontario.

Practically complete returns of the provincial election indicated Premier G. Howard Ferguson's Conservative government had been returned to power by an overwhelming majority.

ARMOUR IS SUED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Tommy Armour, leading professional golfer and one-time national open champion, is being sued for separation by his wife, the former Consuelo Carreras, it became known today. Mrs. Aromur, according to her attorney, accuses her husband of running away with a woman from Washington, D. C. She also charges he has failed to support her or their seven-year-old son.

DECLARES LAW MUST BE ENACTED BEFORE SENATE ADJOURNED

Insurgents Cheer Statement; Many Regulars Give Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Hoover has at last wielded the lash of presidential authority to prevent complete abandonment of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, with the result that the senate prepared today to continue its tedious work of writing the rates of the measure.

With some of the administration Republicans of the senate announcing themselves in favor of adjournment of the special session on November 15, with the implied intention of letting the tariff bill go into the discard, Mr. Hoover notified senatorial leaders there must be a tariff law enacted.

Sen. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, announced the President's stand following a conference at the White House, which Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, and Claudius H. Huston, Republican national chairman, also attended.

The conference followed the declaration of Sen. Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, one of the leaders in the fight for a high tariff bill, that the senate might as well adjourn Nov. 15 and forget about a tariff bill. Sens. Edge (R) of N. J., and Moses (R) of N. H., also have indicated they have no hope of tariff legislation, due to the defeat of administration Republicans by the Democratic - Progressive Republican coalition.

Senator Reed Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee has steadfastly refused to yield to the proposals of other administration Republicans.

"Not with my consent; I want to go right ahead and finish the bill," he said after hearing of the Reed suggestion to quit Nov. 15.

"There must be a tariff bill. That has been my position from the outset. I am not ready to say the senate is impotent and unable to legislate," said Watson. "The president insists there must be a bill."

News of the president's attitude was received with cheers by Insurgent Republicans. They have consistently wanted tariff legislation enacted and have intimated regular Republicans are filibustering.

Whether the president's stand means he is accepting the program of the Democratic-Progressive Republican coalition to boost agricultural rates and confine industrial increases to a few "sick industries" was still a matter of debate.

It was pointed out, however there is every indication the senate bill will be written by the coalition. Some compromises—perhaps elimination of the export debenture plan—may come in conference with the house.

Sen. Borah (R) of Idaho, a leader of the insurgents, has opposed the Nov. 15 adjournment plan, saying he wanted to go right ahead with the bill.

WALKING IN RAIN IS NO SONG

POMEROY, O., Oct. 31.—"Singing in the rain", is a song but walking in a downpour is a story. Here it is.

Bob Shoemaker, who was serving a sentence in the Gallipolis jail for stealing escaped from the bastile late Tuesday night in company with two other men.

But the rain proved too much for Shoemaker. He stopped at the home of Marshal Lloyd Hysel of Middleport late yesterday afternoon and asked him if he would telephone the sheriff at Gallipolis and ask him to come after him as it was too wet to stay out and too far to walk. The distance is seventeen miles.

Shoemaker is back in jail today.

GRAND JURY PROBES WINTERS FAILURE

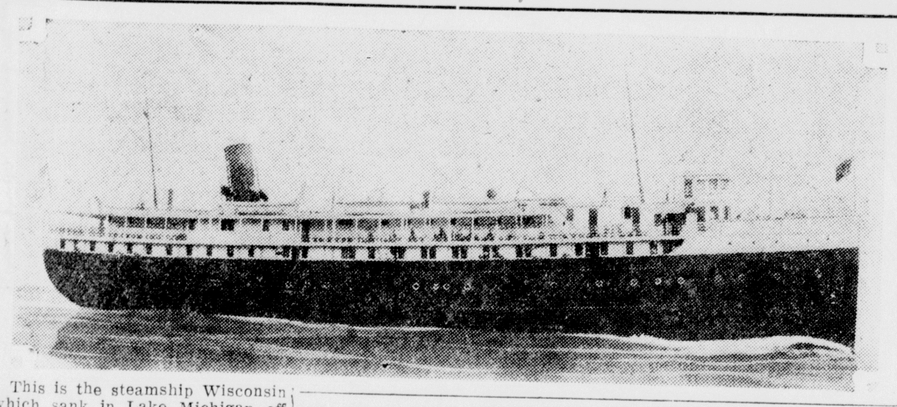

DAYTON, O., Oct. 31.—A grand jury investigation is to be made into the circumstances surrounding the failure of the Jonathan H. Winters Company, a banking concern here.

This became certain today when Common Pleas Judge Robert C. Patterson ordered the legal procedure.

A substantial decline in the assets of the company, from $1,138,871 to $309,052, is to be probed to determine whether the directors of the company are criminally liable.

NINE LOSE LIVES WHEN LAKE STEAMER SINKS

This is the steamship Wisconsin which sank in Lake Michigan off Kenosha, Wis., early today (October 29) after a struggle against wind and wave which will go down in the annals of the lake as an epic. Bodies of nine members of the crew were taken into Kenosha harbor by coast guardsmen. Sixty-four of the Wisconsin's personnel were saved.

CASH DIVIDENDS TO HOLDERS OF COMMON STOCK HALTS FEARS

Many Corporations Adopt Action To Restore Confidence

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Following the action of United States Steel Corporation and American Can Corporation in declaring special cash dividends to holders of common stock, announcement was made today of similar extra dividend declarations by directors of other industrial companies.

United Dairy Products Corporation declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, increasing the dividend rate from 4 to 5 per cent.

Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company, one of the largest and most important American manufacturers of hardware, declared a special dividend of $1 a share payable to stock of record December 2.

Directors of Marmon Motor Car Company, at a special meeting of the directors at Indianapolis today, declared the regular dividend of one dollar a share, in advance of the regular dividend period. This action was taken, according to a statement by the officials of the company "to allay the feelings of apprehension that has been evident throughout the country as a result of the disastrous stock market collapse, and to inspire public confidence that they realize that no matter what the fivrations of a wild market does to securities, the earnings and the assets of our great basic industries are fundamentally secure."

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—Tribute to some of the larger corporations of the country for their promptitude in meeting the stock market emergency and hurling their power for its rally, was giving by Cyrus S. Eaton, prominent financier, in a statement issued today.

Pointing out that the decline of the stock market on Tuesday following preceding breaks, was so great that no opportunity was given for concerted action between the banks and the great corporations throughout the country, Eaton expressed confidence that should such a deflation again threaten, similar leadership will manifest itself.

Buying power of the Eaton-Mather-Otis group here is believed to have been one of the "life savers" of the stock market, causing it to rally from Monday's deflation. This group is regarded as the owner of the largest collection of steel stocks in the country.

Faith in the security markets was also expressed by James A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Steel and Tube Co. He asserted he has been buying stocks during the break and stated that in his belief the climax of the stock market decline has been reached.

CYCLIST KILLED

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—A 68-year-old cyclist, Frederick M. Falk, proprietor of a shoe repairing and dry cleaning shop here, is dead today as the result of injuries which he sustained when he was thrown from his bicycle after it was struck by an automobile.

COALITION MAY ASK OFFICIAL CENSURE FOR LOBBYING CASE

HERE'S THE ANSWER

LONDON, Oct. 31.— Here is the Prince of Wales's own explanation of why he doesn't marry as given in an article written by Evelyn Graham in the magazine "Britania and I," published today.

"During twelve hours of every day, I have to be what other people want me to be," the writer quotes the prince. "During the rest of the time, I can be myself. If I married, I should have to spend the rest of my time being what my wife wanted me to be."

HALLOWE'EN DRESS ENABLES BANDIT TO ROB THEATER OWNER

Rowdyism Is Reported; Ring Curfew At West Jefferson

By International News Service

Police of all Ohio cities today are making final preparations to forestall any Hallowe'en rowdyism tonight.

Many instances of it, and one deed of actual violence, have already been reported.

A bandit, who was disguised as a woman in a masquerade costume, entered the Ohio Theater at Mansfield last night, shot and seriously wounded A. E. Ratser, the manager, and escaped wth the receipts, which aggregated approximateiy $700. No accurate description of the robber could be gained because of the Hallowe'en costume.

At St. Clairsville, police are searching for Hallowe'en pranksters who tampered with the town's new water stand pipe or tower, and allowed 25,000 agllons of water to be wasted.

Mrs. M. V. Johnson, of Columbus, reported to police that she had been struck in the eye by a large apple as she was standing on the porch of her home. She said Hallowe'en merry-makers had thrown it. The eye was badly bruised.

Meanwhile, most of the large cities were completing plans for public street celebrations.

Marion is to dedicate its new "white-way" lighting system and the opening of the newly-paved Center tSreet. Three bands are to provide music.

Police of Columbus will block off the block between Third and High Streets on Broad Street, which is in the very heart of the capital city. The American Legion thirty-piece band will provide music for dancing.

West Jefferson, about seventeen miles west of Columbus, expects to pass a quiet Hallowe'en. The mayor there has ordered a curfew, and all children under 16 years of age must be off the streets by 8 p. m.

BRITISH REDISCOUNT RATE IS REDUCED; BROKERS ARE HAPPY

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Bank of England today reduced the British rediscount rate to six per cent.

The reduction in the bank rate from six and one-half per cent was not entirely unexpected in view of the influx of gold to the Bank of England and the large decrease in the withdrawals of gold by France and Germany.

Nevertheless it caused high optimism among traders on the British markets who foresaw promise of easier money a bolstering effect on the prices of stock securities.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Reduction of the Bank of England rate was considered the most bullish news in many weeks in the financial section today.

Brokers, snatching a few extra hours of sleep afforded by the late opening of the exchange, were called by their offices and received the news of the reduction gladly.

In the opinion of observers, reduction of the federal reserve rediscount rate when the board meets today is probable.

BUYING ORDERS NOW BOLSTER MARKET AS CRASH SEEMS ENDED

Investors Not Buying On Margins; Many New Customers

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — "Buy!" That was the cry in Wall St. today. John O. Public is coming back into the stock market, and in a big way.

Long before the New York Stock Exchange opened for the day—at noon, two hours later than customary— great crowds of small investors, many of them new customers, swarmed into brokerage and investment houses in the financial district with cash in their pockets or checks in their wallets eager to "get in" on the buying side of the rising stock market.

At "60 Wall Street," Henry L. Doherty and Company, a prominent investment house, the corridors and waiting rooms were jammed with customers when the International News Service reporter pushed his way through. "I want to buy so many shares of such and such," men and women were saying to weary-eyed salesmen.

Nobody seemed to be selling. Everybody was buying, according to an official of the company. Confidence had supplanted fear and hysteria.

Eighty salesmen, worn to the point of exhaustion, were taking orders as fast as they came. They were "all in," having had practically no sleep all week.

At "39 Broadway," John Muir and Company, the same situation prevailed. As T. E. Kelly, manager of the auditing department expressed it:

"They're coming in with cash. They're not buying on margins. Instead of purchasing 100 shares on one-third margin as they did before the crash, they are buying twenty-five or thirty shares and paying cash.

"They're new customers, for the most part, buying for investment. They're not speculators."

Twenty employes were asleep on cots in the rear of the Muir and Company office. As one of the officials remarked, "It's like a six-day bicycle race, these market endurance tests. We're working in shifts, two hour shifts. Nobody has time for real sleep. Those two holidays tomorrow and Saturday will be a Godsend, even though we have to work."

At every office visited by this correspondent the over-worked employes were looking forward to the double holiday. The board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Exchange voted to open at noon today, instead of 10 a. m., and to close the exchanges all day Friday and Saturday to allow the staffs of member firms, many of whom have been on duty continuously for several days ,to obtain necessary rest.

All night long employes—clerks, accountants and stenographers—toiled over company books, trying to catch up on their work. There was a clatter to every office visited. Typewriter clattering, adding machines chugging and men with eye shades pouring over their ledgers. The offices were littered with ticker tape and discarded pieces of

RED LIGHT MEANS DANGER

ASHLAND, Ky., Oct. 31.—Charles Finney, of Lawrence County, Ohio, had his mind on other things while motoring through Ashland. He ignored a red light much to the chagrin of Patrolman William Miller.

Miller stopped Finley and started to reprimand him and turn him loose. As he ordered the Ohioan to drive on, he commanded him to stop in the same breath.

The officer saw a gallon jug in the tonneau of Finley's auto, and an investigation disclosed twenty-three other jugs, allegedly filled with "moonshine."

Finley was sentenced to thirty days in jail and he must pay a fine of $200. And, as the result of running through a red light.

STREET NOISES TO BECOME EVIDENCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A truck, equipped with sensitive apparatus for recording the intensity of sound, will soon begin wending its way through New York's streets, gathering evidence for the newly-created Noise Abatement Society's war on the city's unnecessary noise, it was announced today.

Another method by which the commission hopes to reduce New York's tumult of sound will be publication of a questionairre asking citizens the chief sources of bothersome sounds and time of day at which they occur.

CLUB WILL PROTEST EXCLUSION ORDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Liberal Club of New York University was to meet this afternoon to protest against the exclusion of Dave Myers, colored football star, from the line-up in the coming game with the University of Georgia.

The presidents of the student councils of the three colleges of the University, will also confer today with members of the faculty.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Anna Farr Carey, chairman of missionary work of the Wilmington Yearly Meeting, gave a helpful and instructive talk on "Friends Mission Work at Home and Abroad," at the regular meeting of the Missionary Society of the Friends Church, at the home of Mrs. Grover Crawford, S. Detroit St., Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Carey has spent twelve years in missionary work in Jamaica and three members of her immediate family have worked in Africa.

Mrs. Lucy Compton, chairman of Mission Work at the Miami Quarterly Meeting, was also present and gave a humorous demonstration of a missionary dialogue entitled, "Why the Missionary Society Failed."

There were fourteen members present and roll call was answered by each one giving a verse of praise. Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Albert Johnson.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Carey of near Highland, Mrs. Compton, New Burlington, Mrs. Naomi Hawkins, Mt. Sterling, Mrs. Cecil Crawford and Mrs. Harmon.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Anna Mendenhall and Mrs. Ida LeValley, in serving a delicious refreshment course.

ENTERTAINS GROUP AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The dining room, where a delicious luncheon was served, was elaborately decorated with Hallowe'en symbols. The guests came in masquerade costume and the guessing of their identity furnished a half hour of amusement. Miss Isabel Bowser was awarded a prize for the most artistic costume and Mr. Edward Cornwell was given a prize for the most comical costume.

Following the unmasking games and dancing were enjoyed and a gypsy fortune teller, who occupied an attractively decorated nook in the dining room, told the fortunes of all the guests.

ENTERTAINS WITH HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Master Warren Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Holland, Bellbrook Ave., entertained with a Hallowe'en party, Tuesday evening for the pleasure of a group of his friends.

The guests were masked and an evening of games was enjoyed. A light refreshment course was served at the close of the games.

ELKS ENTERTAIN AT FIRST DANCE OF SEASON

Approximately sixty couples attended the Hallowe'en Dance sponsored by Xenia Lodge No. 668 of Elks, at Elks' Hall, Wednesdy evening. The Cosmopolitan Band of Antioch furnished music for dancing. Light refreshments were served during the intermission period. Following intermission Mr. Germaine Ball, local pianist, played several selections. A grand march at which time favors were passed out, was a feature of the evening.

This is the first dance of the season and plans are being arranged for another dance during Thanksgiving week.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS ENJOY WIENER ROAST

About sixty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mangan, Jasper Pike, Monday evening and enjoyed a wiener roast.

Following the wiener roast games were played and a general social time was enjoyed.

FIFTEEN BILLIONS ESCAPING TAX SAYS DAVID C. BRADFUTE

More than fifteen billion dollars worth of intangible property is escaping taxation in Ohio according to David C. Bradfute, chairman of the Greene County Tax League, who spoke at a New Jasper Twp. Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday evening.

The meeting was held at the home of A. D. Thomas, township chairman. Mr. Bradfute further stated that a surprising amount of this property which is not being returned for taxation because of the confiscatory rates under the uniform rule, is to be found in the county. This is indicated by the following figures: according to the most recent report of the Ohio Tax Commission this county is being taxed on $36,450,000 worth of real property; $7,880,065 worth of tangible property; and $11,557,385 of intangible property, making a total of $55,887,385.

Included in the tangible personal property are public utilities valued at $7,207,000 most of which should be included under real property as most of this is real estate. Included in the tangible personal property is $1,565,000 of moneys on deposit in banks in this county.

"It is of course impossible to arrive at any exact valuation of intangible in either this county or the state, but money on deposit, mortgages, and building and loan assets can be either exactly obtained or very closely estimated from state reports," the speaker said. "State banks in this county have a total of $1,550,000 on deposit, and national banks have $2,920,000 on deposit. A total of these two may well be contrasted with the amount of money returned for deposit as shown above. In the case of state banks public moneys have been deducted but this is not separately listed in the national bank deposits. However, 7 per cent of the deposits in the state banks are public moneys so the same ratio may be used with national banks.

"There is no way of arriving at the exact total of mortgages in effect in this county, however, economists generally agree on a rule which says that the average mortgage runs conservatively for three years. As a result a reliable estimate can be obtained by multiplying the mortgages filed in any one year by three. On this basis this county has mortgages valued at $5,786,058.

"Building and loan assets for this county amount to $5,408,502. This includes the real estate and tangible personal property of the building and loan companies, but as that amounts to only about 2 per cent it is not a very big item.

Contrasting the sum of these three types of intangibles with the total intangible property taxed in this county it will be seen that a great amount is escaping. This is doubly so when one considers that intangible personal property also includes credits, inventories, stocks and bonds, annuities and bank stocks for which no figures can be obtained. If these figures could be secured the contrast would be even greater. The average tax rate for this county is $18.14 per thousand dollars worth of valuation.

"Figures for the state are: Real property $9,361,388,000; tangible personal property $3,104,642,091; public utilities $1,568,600,000; intangible personal $1,029,707,279; moneys on deposit or subject to draft (tax report, 1927) $286,843,840.

"Compare the figure $1,029,707,279, the amount of intangible wealth listed for taxation, with the totals shown above of the various kinds of intangible property actually in existence in Ohio; moneys on deposit in state banks $1,652,909,000. Money on deposit in national banks $689,825,000; mortgages, $3,795,591,966; building and loan assets $1,035,429,316. These forms of intangible wealth alone total $7,173,755,282."

HEAVY CHRISTMAS BUSINESS COMING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Despite the stock market smash, the United States should enjoy a heavy Christmas business, treasury officials said today on the basis of reports received from various federal reserve districts.

Naturally the heavy losses incurred by investors will have some effect on buying. Nevertheless, it appeared likely that the retailers of the country would have sales at least nearly as great as the tremendous business in the holiday seasons of 1927 and 1928.

It was pointed out that there was an unusually large Christmas trade two years ago despite the fact that there was a general industrial recession in the last three months of 1927.

THE FINAL ACT

Judge, Central Figure In Texas Tragedy, Tried For Killing Son-In-Law

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 31.—The last act in a tragedy that shook the entire state of Texas is being written as R. H. Hamilton, Amarillo attorney and former appeals commission judge of the supreme court of Texas, is tried at Weatherford, for the slaying of his youthful son-in-law, Tom Walton, last May.

The tragedy was out of the ordinary. Behind it was the romance of a youth of 21, and his now widowed bride of 19, which had its beginning on the campus of the University of Texas. Walton and Theresa Hamilton, second daughter of the attorney, were students at the university in the fall and winter of 1928-29.

Grief-Stricken Mother

Besides the interest attached to the bride, widowed at the hands of her father before she had had an opportunity to live with her husband as a wife, there is the mother of the boy, Mrs. Grace Walton. She collapsed when she learned of her son's death and was dangerously ill for months.

It was under Mrs. Walton's persuasion that Walton went to Hamilton's office to disclose his secret marriage to Theresa, there to be greeted by bullets from a six-shooter in the hands of an irate father-in-law.

Still dressed in mourning black she appears at the Weatherford trial. The jurors probably will have a chance to hear her story, if she is physically able to take the witness stand, as the prosecution hopes.

Interest Runs High

The popularity of the young people on the university campus and in Amarillo; their romance on the campus, and the difference in their social rating and wealth; the prominence of Hamilton as an attorney and in the state's politics; the condition of the heartbroken mother, who blames herself for sending her son to his death; Hamilton's first statement that "I killed Walton to protect my home," and his later statement that he killed him in self-defense, have attracted widespread attention, and all Texas is centering its interest on the courtroom next week.

District Attorney Edward W. Thomerson, for the state, will contend that Hamilton killed Walton because he objected to him as a son-in-law, and with the knowledge at the time of the slaying that he was shooting his daughter's husband. The defense will seek to show that Hamilton had not learned of the marriage, but that he had received threats from the boy indirectly which led him to buy a gun and protect himself.

BUCKLEY WILL NOT BEGIN TERM FRIDAY

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31.—Bert B. Buckley, 55, ex-state treasurer, who is under sentence to serve two and one-half years in the Atlanta Penitentiary because of his conviction of attempted bribery and liquor conspiracy charges, will not begin serving his term tomorrow, as previously announced, it appeared here today.

Though United States Marshal Stanley Borthwick says he has received a letter from the former state official saying he would surrender himself this afternoon, Buckley's committment may be held up because of a legal technicality.

A special mandate must be issued by the circuit court of appeals ordering such a step, it was stated. The circuit court does not issue the mandate until the prisoner's time for an appeal has expired, unless requested to do so by the prisoner himself.

Buckley has made no special request. His time expires on November 9, and in view of the absence of the request, it is believed Buckley will not be sent to the southern penitentiary until November 10.

PROPOSES PROBE OF SPECULATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.— A congressional investigation of stock exchange speculation throughout the country was proposed in a resolution presented in the senate today by Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota.

He proposed appointment of a committee of five with broad authority to summon witnesses and secure record of exchanges.

Nye declared that the investigation was a forerunner to necessary congressional legislation to regulate purely speculative operations on stock exchanges.

TEN AGENCIES TO PARTICIPATE IN COMMUNITY CHEST THIS YEAR

Ten welfare agencies of Xenia, as compared wiht eight last year, are expected to derive financial support from the second annual Community Chest Fund drive to be conducted in Xenia November 19 to 26, inclusive, it is announced.

Participating organizations this year will include the Social Service League, Red Cross, Federated Parent-Teacher Association, East High and Lincoln P.-T. A., Boy Scouts, East Side Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Xenia Recreation Association, Xenia Garden Club and Greene County Health League.

The only addition to the list of participating agencies is the Girl Scouts. The East-Lincoln P.-T. A. and East Side Boy Scouts, which were supported jointly last year, are filing separate budgets this year.

All of the organizations expecting to receive funds from the chest will submit their 1930 budgets to the chest budget committee and the aggregate total of the budgets allowed will constitute the major part of the goal to be fixed for the coming campaign.

Announcement is made that the personnel of the chest budget committee will remain the same this year. This committee is composed of Postmaster C. S. Frazer, chairman; Miss Sarah Hagar, R. D. Adair, J. C. Marshall, Foster Clemmer, M. L. Wolf and H. S. LeSourd.

The committee is expected to meet soon to consider the budgets and fix a quota for the chest drive.

OLD SENTENCE IS ORDERED IN FORCE

Enforcement of a sentence of thirty days in the County Jail, which had been suspended by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy last April 4 on the condition that Nathan Mahaffey, 25, near Cedarville, paid a fine of $25 and costs, was ordered by the court Wednesday. Sheriff Ohmer Tate was given authority for holding Mahaffey in jail.

Mahaffey after being fined and given a thirty-day jail sentence on a theft charge, was discharged from custody on the condition that he paid the assessment. He was re-arrested October 11 because of alleged failure to pay the fine and costs.

SINGS OPERA LEAD

MISS DAVIDSON

TAKING the part of "Rose," adopted daughter of "Pilot Farley," Miss Sara Davidson, senior, will portray the leading feminine character in the opera, "In Old Louisiana," to be presented by the combined Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs of Xenia Central High School at 8 o'clock Friday night in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium. The most important male part is that of "Richard St. John," a young sugar planter, taken by John Collins, who plays opposite Miss Davidson. Seats for the performance may be reserved at Sohn's drug store.

W. R. C. DISTRICT CONVENTION BRINGS 125 MEMBERS TO XENIA

One hundred and twenty-five delegates attended the opening session of the sixth district convention of the Woman's Relief Corps at I. O. O. F. Hall, S. Detroit St., this city, Thursday.

City Manager S. O. Hale, gave the welcoming address which was followed by the address from the Xenia corps president, Mrs. Anna Poland. Mrs. Carrie Bennett, of Springfield, state senior vice president, responded.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock with Mrs. Edith Norckauer, Xenia district president, presiding. Several state officers and past officers were in attendance and eight members of the Springfield Post, G. A. R., were present.

Reports of all corps represented were given followed by a short talk by Mrs. C. V. Burton, of the O. S. and S. O. Home. Mrs. Burton, who was accompanied by six or eight students of the Home, told of the progress of the institution and of various things which it is hoped to accomplish there.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hadley, Wilmington, was in charge of the memorial services which followed. A short talk was given by Mrs. Alma Leppleman, Toledo, state council.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Anna Allen, Dayton, Ky., conducted the annual inspection. Election of officers and selection of a place of the meeting next year were scheduled for the afternoon session.

Luncheon was served by members of the Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., at 12:30 o'clock.

UNABLE TO LEARN AIR CRASH CAUSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Investigators of the department of commerce have been unable to definitely determine the cause of the crash of the T. A. T. transport plane "City of San Francisco" in New Mexico September 30, with a loss of eight lives, Secretary Lamont reported to the senate today.

Informing the senate of another fatal crash at Millington, Tenn., in response to a senate resolution, he said Frank Hays, an unlicensed pilot killed two passengers when he attempted to stunt too close to the ground.

GIRLS' CLOAK ROOM ROBBED AT DANCE

While about sixty couples were engaged in merry-making at the Hallowe'en dance sponsored by Xenia Lodge, No. 668, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Wednesday night at the Elks' Hall, a thief invaded the girls' rest room and stole about $7.50 in cash and a pair of gloves. Loss of money and other articles from purses was reported by three girls.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD—And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.—Luke 6:12.

SHYLOCK AGAIN

A report that Washington was seeking a separate reparations agreement with Germany was all that was needed to revive the "Uncle Shylock" canard in the French press. The report was received in Paris as an indication of the loss of American confidence in the Young plan and of the determination of the government in Washington to safeguard its claim to a fraction of what Germany is under obligation to pay. "Shylock's grasping fingers lose nothing," says the Depeche Coloniale.

As a matter of fact, we lost fifty per cent of what France owed us on account of the war and a larger percentage of what Italy owed us. We are not at all sure that we shall be able to collect even the moieties of their debts which they have funded. As far as German reparations are concerned, we fixed in the beginning a figure easily justified by consideration of justice and fairness; and consequently there is no reason why we should reduce or waive our claims, whatever reasons there may be for Germany's other creditors to modify their demands.

After the ululations caused in France by Snowden's triumph at The Hague, where the other allies were caught in the act of trying to gouge Great Britain, Americans will be more amused than irritated by the revival of the Shylock simile. Were the press of this country to assail France's attitude towards debts and reparations, as the French press persistently assails ours, what consternation it would sow in the timid breasts of American internationalists, whose recipe for maintaining cordial relations between other countries and their own is for the latter to take everything lying down.

A LAUDED LOBBY

Speaker Longworth, who represnets an Ohio district in congress, was so elated over the succcessful completion of the Ohio river canalization project that he made this interesting contribution to the discussion of lobbies:

"It was about this time that an influence outside of congress was beginning to be felt. A group of men, not many in number, but representatives of a vast population and vast public interests, was beginning to receive sympathetic hearing in the committees of congress. They called themselves the Ohio Valley Improvement association. It was a lobby, if you please; but the sort—and there are relatively few of them—that we welcome in Washington. It was a lobby armed with special knowledge of facts, circumstances and conditions imparted not for the enhancement of their personal and financial interests, but to enable congress to act more intelligently upon a project which would ultimately be for the benefit not only of Ohio but of the whole United States."

Without disparaging the disniterestedness of these gentlemen or minimizing their achievement, we are reminded by Speaker Longworth of a famous divine's definition of orthodoxy and hterodoxy. "Orthodoxy," said he, "is my doxy; heterodoxy is any other doxy." Whether a lobby is laudable or to be condemned and booted out of doors perhaps as frequently depends on whether its ends benefit the critic, as on the means it takes to obtain them.

It was Emerson who said every man is a lover of truth. It may have been the cast in Emerson's set, but we never did take much in transcendentalism.

The Bureau of Education reports that adult education in this country showed a 30 percent increase over the year before, and now it's up to some other bureau to answer the question. What do you mean, education?

Bo-Broadway

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Wils Benge, who has worn out 23 dress suits enacting the role of stage butler, is donning his 24th to enact his specialty in "This Thing Called Love," a new Pathe noisy.

As "Jarvis," "Meadows," and "Perkins" Wils has appeared in scores of plays and there's no way of estimating how many million feet of film he has butled through.

IN THE OZARKS

Charlie Finger, who came to New York a few days ago to get the Longmans, Green award for writing "Courageous Companions," says that not all censorship is located in New York City—his part of the world, The Ozarks, also suffers from density of a kind.

"A little school teacher in my neck of the woods was doing a good job," he said, "until one day I noticed she had disappeared. I inquired of one of the school trustees and learned that she had been removed for having some bad books in her possession.

"'What were they?' I asked. He became very earnest and requested me to follow him to his house, which I did. He went to his bed and lifted up the mattress. 'Here they are,' he said, and I beheld some copies of the National Geographic magazine, containing articles, with pictures, about the South Sea Islanders."

UNIMPORTANT BIOGRAPHIES

Rouben Mamoulian, who staged the Theatre Guild's production of "Porgy," "Marco Millions," "Wings Over Europe," and recently, Helen Morgan's noisy, "Applause," came to the land of the more-or-less free and the home of the-undoubtedly brave at the age of 25. Today he is thirty and to make it more complicated, his middle name is Zachary.

Not that it makes any particular difference, but Zachary has 17 suits, all blue serge. He never had a hat that fit him. The pipe he has smoked for 17 years is cursed with a defective flue and he hates cheese and telephones.

AIR SAFETY

While there are many items of airplane accidents in the papers there is but a small percentage of accidents in regularly scheduled air service. Those who wish to fly will cut accidents to a minimum if they will insist on flying only in licensed passenger planes with experienced pilots. Look for NC or C, with a number after the letter. enter your interest on scheduled routes and stick to licensed pilots and you will be in little, if any more, danger than traveling on the earth.

DRIVING

Most states have a definite speed limit for automobiles. Some set maximum speed at 35, some 40 and some 45 miles per hour. A few states, more wisely managed, do not fix a definite limit but have a sound and sensible law which demands safe, sane and courteous driving and gives officers the power to make arrests when rules are not complied with, no matter what the speed. Fixing speed limits is not the best approach to bad driving. What drivers most need to learn is caution and care. They are frequently as reckless as faster drivers. A law with teeth in it which does not fix a definite limit, will get best results.

SELLING YOURSELF TO THE BOSS

Some men spend as much time trying to sell themselves to the boss a they do at their real job. The only way to do a thorough job of selling yourself to your employer is to do your work so well you make him dependent on you. Not that you will ever be indispensable. Nobody is. But you can get him to the point where he will hate to think about getting along without you. You will never get into that position by wisecracks or by consciously trying to make a good impression.

REMEMBRANCE AGAIN

Speaking of remembrance, Armistice Day is near. There will be parades, programs, balls and other kinds of celebration. The big idea of remembering the anniversary of the armistice is to remember the sacrifice of young men, the high cost of honorable service, the grief and paint and loss for a cause that seemed worth while. Armistice Day should not be the occasion for glorifying war, for creating propaganda for armies and navies. It is a day for gratitude and the remembrance of heroes.

Above all, Armistice Day is a time for determining once again that tolerance and idealism and the spirit of service of the war period shall not have been marshalled in vain. If men died, we must not let it be said they died for nothing.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR STATE UNIVERSITIES SOUGHT

By O. MAX GARDNER
Governor of North Carolina

(Oliver Max Gardner was born at Shelby, N. C., March 22, 1882. He attended the State College of Agriculture and Engineering and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He began practicing law at Shelby in 1906. In 1911 he was elected to the state senate, serving until 1915. From 1916 to 1921 he was lieutenant governor of North Carolina. He was elected governor in 1928. He is a Democrat and a veteran of the Spanish-American war.)

A problem of growing concern to all the south is that of providing adequate financial support for our state institutions of higher learning.

The story of higher public education in the south is soo long to be recited here. It involves, in the early years, an ideal of the common-wealth's duty to its citizens wholly different from our own. By 1860, for example, the University of North Carolina counted a student body of 600, representing 35 states and had produced, besides a president and vice president of the United States, thirteen governors of other states and a score of cabinet officers and foreign ministers. It is a story touched deeply by the tragedy of the Civil war and the black despair of its aftermath. And it is, finally, a story of struggle against obstacles of poverty, ignorance, and official indifference to the higher cultural needs of the people.

After the dawn of the new century, this process of recovery and rehabilitation was greatly accelerated. With the rise of the mills and the rebirth of southern industry came a new impetus in public education in all of its levels. And the very essence and spirit of this cultural and spiritual renaissance was the democracy, relentless as it was youthful, of the new south.

A living, progressive civilization is always, as to some of its aspects, in the pioneering stage. It is ever confronted by new frontiers of opportunity and achievement.

In my judgment, we here in the south are today confronted by one of these frontiers. It is essentially spiritual in its nature, consists in a new approach to and appraisal of cultural values, and lies between those parallels which separate mediocrity from excellence. We have, in our words, achieved a mediocre respectability in higher education here in the south. Public support of our state colleges and universities, plus a few notable benefactions and the aid of some of the educational foundations have brought us thus far, but we stand today with only the slenderest margin between the operation of these institutions and the bread and butter line.

HALLO WE'EN!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

It is far more interesting to take one's exercise through rhythmic dancing than through set exercises, for one can then develop grace as well as strength. It is also much more beneficial to feminine bodies, which are so much more delicate than the masculine physiques. The complex Swedish exercises are much too heavy for women.

The rhythmic school of dancing was founded many years ago and must appeal to the imagination of a great many women and children, for it has flourished amazingly and developed innumerable disciples who go about the country spreading the teachings of their first leader.

Dancing is taught through word pictures, after some few simple exercises have been mastered. The pupil imagines that she is a dainty craft sailing the sea, and with an airy, silken scarf tied to her waist, she swings and sways to soft music very much as the sail does in the light summer zephyrs. Often the teacher will ask her pupils to listen to a bit of music and then tell them to dance and to interpret what the music means to them. This is when they are more advanced and are ready for improvisation.

It is very difficult for the average woman to bring a pianist into her own home, the while she learns to transform the music into the dance. But the fundamental calisthenics are worthy of some consideration, as they can be done in one's own boudoir.

One very good one is done in the following manner: Dressed in a bathing suit, or some scanty costume, pressing the palms of your hands down on the floor, you raise your body with only the tips of your toes and the palms of your hands for support. You will find that two or three of these will exhaust you at first. Then turn on your back, relax for a moment. When you feel rested, raise your legs and circle, imitating the movements of bicycling. Ten movements such as these are supposed to have the same effect on your muscles as your initial attempt to ride horseback.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The trouble with President Hoover's National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement is its secretiveness. It is too mysterious to be popular. Highbrow and stuck up! —some critics call it.

On investigation, I believe this to be an undeserved reputation.

The commission simply is misunderstood, it seems to me. It is not the kind of commission people expected. Whether it is the right or the wrong kind is a question which was not left to the commission itself to determine.

I cannot attribute my information to any particular individual, because, as I have said, the commission is darn mysterious. Its members all are pledged to anonymity except Chairman George W. Wickersham.

As for Chairman Wickersham, he spoke out loud just once, to Governor Roosevelt of New York, and has been regretting it ever since.

He puts his finger on his lips if you ask him about the weather.

Nevertheless, its first-hand information—guaranteed to be the commission's honest-to-goodness self analysis, straight from headquarters.

If, then, the N. C. on L. O. and E. knows its own fix, this is it:

"We are trying to start a real science of criminology. We begin with hardly any facts to go on. Having dug up a few, maybe we arrive at certain definite conclusions from them.

"Suppose we publish these conclusions; what then?

"Why, having dug up a few additional facts, perhaps we find our previous conclusions completely upset by them, and have to reverse ourselves.

"This is bound to happen time and again. At about the 'steenth repetition of it, the entire public gives us the ha ha. We never can get another one of our conclusions accepted seriously.

"We are mysterious because we have not yet formulated any conclusions whatever that we feel fairly sure of—as sure as doctors or astronomers or any other class of scientists feel concerning their conclusions. When we do, take it from us, we shall broadcast the tidings."

Is it fair to inquire?—

How happens it that the N. C. on L. O. and E. is attempting to of crime?
spread itself over so broad a field

The N. C. on L. O. and E. is operating on a $250,000 appropriation provided by congress on the strength of a resolution introduced by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who states that he meant it all (and he ought to know what he meant by his own resolution) to be spent investigating prohibition.

Yet here is the N. C. on L. O. and E. investigating crime in general.

How come?

To which the N. C. on L. O. and E. answers promptly:

"All we know is that President Hoover appointed us; not Senator Glass of Virginia. The president said, 'Less crime!'—in general.

"Who cares what Senator Glass meant!"

Okay!—but creating a new science sounds like a large order.

"Oh, all we aim to do," explains the N. C. on L. O. and E., "is to drive a mere peg to hang the science on.

"Hanging it there will be a job of generations."

Another problem presents itself. As the N. C. on L. O. and E. (or some future N. C. on L. O. and E.) proceeds with its task, may it not hit upon the discovery?

That certain crimes are caused by certain conditions.

As, for instance—

How could there be thefts?—without private property.

Supposing such a discovery, will it be the commission's duty to recast society and economics, so as to end crime by eliminating the reasons for it?

"We propose to view crime from today's standpoint," rejoins the N. C. on L. O. and E. "We cannot speak for the future—after a possible revolution or two."

The N. C. on L. O. and E. consists of:

Query:

With the exception of Frank L. Loesch, who may have had some practical experience, as vice president of Chicago's crime commission, how can these eleven bookworms possibly have the least comprehension of the lawbreaking psychology?

"We have our experts," counters the N. C. on L. O. and E., triumphantly. "A doctor does not have to be a germ to understand him, under a microscope."

Ah, but they forget that some of the meanest germs remain undiscovered.

The N. C. on L. O. and E. has divided its field of study into eleven major subjects, with a subcommittee to specialize on each of them. Maybe it is a mere coincidence that there are exactly enough subjects to allow a subchairmanship apiece to all the members of the commission.

The odd circumstance is that crimes, with one exception, are bunched, hodge-podge, together.

Causes in general!—courts in general!—police in general!—murder, burglary, arson, all under a single classification—but prohibition has an exclusive committee, with Boss Wickersham at the head of it.

"Why so much emphasis," I asked, "on prohibition?"

"No especial reason," answered the N. C. on L. O. and E., "further than that it seems to be a pretty important subject."

If one does not feel up to serving waffles for breakfast, there are always simple pancakes that may take their place and do not take such an effort for the average housewife to make. This menu will serve five.

Today's Recipes

Creamed Spinach—Heat the cooked spinach and chop fine. There should be two cups of it. Make a white sauce, using one cup of liquid (part milk and part spinach liquid) and three tablespoons of butter, one of flour. Add the white sauce to the spinach, add two tablespoons butter, a dish of nutmeg and one teaspoon lemon juice. Beat two eggs well and mix with the spinach. Put in a mold. Set the mold in hot water in a pan in the oven and poach for one hour.

Prune Cake—One cup brown sugar, one egg and one yolk, three tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon cloves, three-fourths cup sour milk, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one cup prunes, cooked and mashed, one and one-half teaspoons soda, one and one-half cups flour. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes Filling—One egg white, beaten, two cups powdered sugar, one-half cup prunes, cooked and mashed, one tablespoon milk, one tablespoon butter.

Swimming and Swimming Pools

X wants to know:

1. How about swimming as an exercise? I love it, and in the winter I go to a swimming pool. Alright?"

Ans. Swimming alright? Yes, indeed, X, it is one of the best forms of exercise, bringing into play nearly every muscle of the body! And it is the only active exercise that can be taken in hot weather without discomfort or danger. Every child should be taught to swim, and the earlier, the better, both for the value of the exercise and for the life-saving possibilities. Yes, when it is impossible to swim in the natural waters, tank swimming is a fair substitute, if the pool is kept in a sanitary condition. By this is meant that the swimming suits and towels are disinfected before use, the proper precautions about the personal hygiene of the swimmers are observed, and some method of disinfecting the water is used.

2. "Should a hot, medium or cold shower be taken before entering the tank?"

Ans. A medium or hot shower, with plenty of soap, should be required of each swimmer before entering the pool, for the pool is really a common bathing tub. Furthermore, the officials should see that no one who has a skin disease, or running ears or eyes or other open sources of infection, is allowed into the pool. Diseases (especially inflammation of the eyes and ears, intestinal infection, skin diseases, etc.) can be, and not infrequently are, contracted in swimming pools where such precautions are not taken.

3. "How long do you consider it wise to stay in the water? Personally I can stay in a very short time, and when I asked my doc-my doctor about this, he just told me to get some fat on my bones; but that really wasn't sympathetic advice!"

Ans. The length of the stay in the water depends upon your reaction, X. Some can apparently stay in indefinitely without any ill effects. Your doctor's advice may not seem sympathetic, but there's truth in it, for those who are insufficiently padded lose body heat very rapidly and so get cold quickly.

4. "When coming out, I take a long, very hot shower and then as cold a one as I can get, but do not know if this is alright."

Ans. Yes, the hot shower on coming out of the pool, followed by cold, is good for you, especially if you are chilly. Otherwise not necessary.

5. "My eyes become irritated after using the pool. What is the cause of this?"

Ans. The water in most swimming pools is disinfected by chloride of lime, an exceedingly potent and safe chemical. (It is also used to purify drinking water.) Sometimes the engineer is a little too lavish with his remedy; then it may irritate the mucous membrane of the eyes and throat for a short time. Call the attention of the authorities to this for it is not necessary. (Three grains of the chloride of lime—less than one-ninth teaspoonful—will kill off myriads of bacteria in a barrel of water! For the purification of drinking water, from 5 to 12 pounds is used for one million gallons!)

Miss E. — It is true that mumps in young adult males (not in boy children) may infect the generative system, and it does, in from 15 to 25 per cent of the cases. Whether the patient becomes sterile depends on the degree and the extension of the infection.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

I smile and sigh when I read the ardent letters of my young correspondents of 16 and 17 with their confidences of love affairs. They are so sure that THEIRS is no puppy love, but the genuine article which will last through life, and that they cannot possibly wait until what their elders call "a suitable age" to marry.

In such cases their parents seem like hard-hearted tyrants trying to separate two fond young hearts.

They are scandalized if you suggest that this love that consumes them is a physical attraction rather than a more spiritual emotion. But marriage soon decides that for them, and then they are SO unhappy. They were too young and some one should have prevented them from marrying, they wail.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I know the question I am about to ask has been asked and answered over and over again, but, of course, everyone thinks their case is different.

"I am a young married woman of 20. I've been married two years, but, Virginia Lee, I realized that my husband and I were not suited soon after we were married. He is very disagreeable, doesn't like to take me out, and he leaves me at night without letting me know where he is going, and expects me to stay at home waiting for him.

"I've met a man in the last three months that I know I would be happy with. He wants me to leave with him. I have no children. Should I leave?

"KITTY."

Two years ago, Kitty, you thought you could be perfectly happy with the man who is now your husband, didn't you? And no one could tell you that you were not congenial and that your love would not last. How can you tell that this love you think you have for this other man will last? Maybe he will be no more satisfactory as a husband than the man you are now married to.

And, besides, didn't you promise when you were married that you would cherish your husband through sickness and health, and, leaving all others, cleave only unto him? Is this your idea of keeping that promise? Or did you only promise because it was part of the ceremony you had to go through with, and without meaning it at all?

I think that you should make every effort to make your marriage successful. Failing that you should divorce him, if you have any grounds and then, after thinking things over carefully, think about a second marriage.

If you just leave with this man you say you love, your reputation will be ruined and your husband can get the divorce.

DOLLY DIMPLES: Keep right on teasing mother to let you go to the party with the others until she weakens. That usually works. If she doesn't, you'll have to be patient until she thinks you are old enough to go out.

LONELY WILLOW: I think you would be very foolish to leave home because your parents do not approve of the boy friend. If he is all you think he is time will prove it. If you leave I am sure you will deeply regret it. Yes, a girl has to be 18 to be married without her parents consent. They could have it annulled if she was not that age.

UNHAPPY BLUE EYES: If the man really loves you he will get a legal separation from his wife and marry you, as he has not lived with her for so long. If he cannot or will not do that it would be as well for you to give him up, as he is not free.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have been going with a young man about two years and now we seem to have drifted apart. I have known this boy and played with him since childhood. I have grown to love him dearly. The other evening I went to a party and it hurt me to see the kind of girls he was with, as they are not very respectable.

"He still treats me as a good friend, and once in a while asks for a date, and when I am with him he tells me he cares for me only, but I can't quite believe this, as he had a date first w hen we were going 'steady.'

"Virginia Lee, please tell me how I could get him to come back without running after him. Life is empty without him.

"BROKEN HEARTED SUE."

Sorry, dear, but I'm afraid you can't. He has probably tired of you and must have his fling, and you will do youself no good by trying to win him back. Hide your hurt, dear, until he is ready to settle down, and he may want to come back to you—if you still want him

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

MRS. ROSE BEETLE IS RESCUED

While the lookers-on held their breath, Stagg worked, and at last he gave a glad cry.

"Hurrah! I see Mrs. Rose. Courage, my dear lady. I'll have you out now in no time!" A faint whisper came from the depth of the hole Stagg was digging:

At the sound of his dear wife's voice, Mr. Rose gave a whoop of joy.

"Never mind the eggs, beloved. If you are alive and well you can lay some more. Are you all right?"

"All right, husband dear, but nearly smothered. I shall be glad to feel the sun again and look upon your face. That you, Stagg? I thought I recognized your feelers. Where are you, husband?"

"Here!" cried Rose. "And there you are! Hurry now, and pull yourself out by my claw before another bark tumbles in on you." Rose Beetle bent over and pulled with all his might, and out of the hole popped another beetle as like him as are two peas in a pod.

"Allow me," said Grass-Green, stretching out his claw, and the two beetles hauled Mrs. Rose Beetle over the top. Exhausted, she sank to the ground.

"What made you go near the rotten tree trunk, wife?" demanded Mr. Rose Beetle. "I told you it was liable to cave in any moment. I thought youd decided to lay your eggs in that ant hill across the way."

"I decided the ant hill was too crowded!" sighed Mrs. Rose Beetle. "I thought it would be quite safe for our babies under the tree root."

"So it will!" agreed Rose Beetle. "And as I have you back safe and sound, you and I have nothing to worry about!"

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED by Phil

Going through the 1929 football season, contending for the Big Ten title, while being under technical suspension by the Western Conference on charges growing out of an alleged looseness in its athletic standards, is the unusual situation being faced by Iowa this fall.

Off-hand no parallel can be recalled for this test, the important factors, so far as the Hawkeyes are concerned, being restraint and self-control in the heat of gridiron conflict.

The job of making a thorough house-cleaning has been under way at Iowa in order to pave the way for a clean bill of reinstatement, also the development of another football team that while not extraordinary, is good.

Iowa has already lost one Big Ten game and tied another, otherwise it would have been an ironic touch for the Hawkeyes under Burt Ingwersen, whose scalp also has been sought by the grandstanders, to dispute the conference championship with any one of the rivals that have threatened Iowa's disbarment.

In taking some of the great producers of sport from the scenes of action the year 1929 has been a costly one. Tex Rickard is lost to boxing and racing lost two of its foremost trainers of thoroughbreds in Jimmy Rowe and Sam Hildreth. Besides Huggins, baseball mourns the passing of such stalwarts as George Stallings and John Conway Toole this year.

Now that Donie Bush has signed to take over Lena Blackburne's job, it is predicted by baseball men that the game's freshest busher, Art Shires, better known as "The Great Shires," will have to pick up a teammate as a sparring partner.

Regardless of the fact that Donie is not of the hard-boiled managerial school, he certainly will not tolerate fisticuffs from Shires or anyone else. It appears that Blackburne was a bit too game when it came to Shires. Discretion would have been the better part of valor for although as manager he won several debates with Arthur he dropped three decisions at fisticuffs and also lost prestige with the owners.

That Fred Slackford, who will be remembered by Xenians as secretary of the late lamented Chamber of Commerce here some years ago and a star football player with the Dayton Triangles, professional eleven, at the same time, was the best defensive fullback he has ever seen in action, is the statement of "Foos" Clark, Dayton, coach of the Imperials, Xenia independent football team. Clark is in a position to know whereof he speaks because he also played with the Triangles at the same time.

According to Clark, Slackford possessed an uncanny ability to diagnose plays in advance. "Slack" was usually to be found at the bottom of every heap of players at the end of each play. Slackford starred in football at Notre Dame under Rockne.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR IMPROVEMENT; READY NOVEMBER 15

Seats To Accommodate 450 Fans; Cost Will Be $1,600

Xenia Central High School Athletic Association has contracted for the construction of new bleachers for Cox Memorial Athletic Field at a cost estimated at $1,600, it was disclosed Thursday.

Contract for erecting the bleachers, which will be located on the west side of the football field with a seating capacity of nearly 450 people, has been awarded to W. O. Jeffries, local contractor, and construction work is already under way.

It is stipulated in the contract that weather being favorable for the work, the new stand is to be ready for use by November 15 for the annual gridiron classic between Xenia and Wilmington High Schools at Cox Field.

Looking forward into the future when the football gridiron may be entirely encircled by a cinder track, the athletic association announces that the bleachers will be located fifteen feet back from the fence surrounding the field.

The wooden stands will be seventy-two feet in length and will have a foundation of concrete set three feet below the ground level. In front the concrete base will rise to a height of three feet off the ground and the back row of seats will be sixteen feet off the level.

There will be ten rows of seats. An aisle extending along the entire front of the structure will be four feet in width while the entrance and exits will be at each end with another aisle running up the middle. Each seat will be twenty-four inches deep with a rise of thirteen inches between each tier. From the front row to the back row the distance will be twenty-four feet.

Heavy guard rails will surround the outer edges of the stand, supposed by strong posts. The construction will be of heavy timber with a two-inch flooring. In every respect the bleachers will be braced securely and the specifications have met with the approval of the state department of industrial relations. It will be given two coats of paint as proof against the weather.

Cost of the bleachers will be financed out of the fund of the school's athletic association and by annual class memorial gifts. The memorial fund of the 1928 graduating class is available and the present senior class has also expressed its interest in the project and its desire to help defray the expense.

The association is also looking forward to the continued support of the community in patronizing high school athletics, including football and basketball games, and the annual income from this source is also expected to aid in meeting the expense.

Announcement is also made that the small temporary bleachers, which have been in use at the field for several years and which are movable, will be shifted to the east side of the athletic field for use of visiting crowds at football games.

INSTITUTE WILL HEAR WOMAN JUDGE

Judge Florence Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, will address the evening session of the Greene County W. C. T. U. institute at Galloway Hall, Wilberforce, at 7 o'clock Friday night.

The afternoon meeting will be held at Arnett Hall and the guest speaker will be Mrs. J. J. Jenkins, of the prohibition educational unit. Mrs. Welch, local president, will preside at this session, at which those in attendance will also consider reports of the national convention held at Indianapolis, Ind., in June.

Music on both occasions will be furnished by university musical organizations under the direction of Prof. Saulsbury.

WILL START ARMORY HERE NEXT SPRING

Construction of Xenia's new $50,000 state armory in the Dodds Addition will probably not be started by the state until next spring when weather conditions are more favorable, in the opinion of Representative R. D. Williamson, who declared Thursday, however, that erection of the Xenia armory will be given preference over other armory projects, of which there are four, in the state.

WILBERFORCE EXPECTS STIFF OPPOSITION FROM CLARK TEAM

Wilberforce University's football team, which meets Clark University, of Atlanta Ga., in the second home intersectional game of the season Saturday afternoon, is anticipating a hard contest.

The Force has recovered from the 6 to 0 defeat administered by Tuskegee Institute, of Tuskegee, Ala., at Soldier Field, Chicago, the first setback of the current season, last Saturday and gives the Southern school credit with producing an eleven that performed in brilliant fashion.

Fumbles at two critical moments by backfield men robbed Wilberforce of a possible victory, however.

The team is determined that it shall go through the remainder of the season undefeated but just at present the invasion of Clark University is uppermost in the minds of Coach Graves and his proteges.

Clark also has lost but one game this fall, a 21 to 0 setback in a game with Tuskegee, but last Saturday showed wonderful form in trimming the soldier's team representing Fort Bennett, Ga., 27 to 6. This was an exceptionally strong army infantry team.

Saturday's contest will start at 2 o'clock.

MIAMI PROFESSOR FAVORS AMENDMENT

The proposed tax limit amendment to the constitution was championed by Dr. E. S. Todd, head of the department of economics, Miami University, who addressed a mass meeting of Greene County farmers at Charity Grange Hall, Dayton-Xenia Pike, Wednesday afternoon.

"The amendment has a three-fold aim: first, to remove from the constitution the so-called uniform rule for the taxation of general property; second, to enable the legislature to make suitable use of intangible property for taxation purposes; and third, to place in the constitution a provision that would limit the total tax rate on real estate to 1½ per cent," Dr. Todd told the assembled farmers. He also enumerated several reasons why he believed the uniform rule should be removed.

LIFE STORIES OF BIG MEN ARE VALUABLE COOLIDGE CLAIMS

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—America has always been a land of romance. It was so in the days of Columbus. The same characteristic has marked all its history.

As a new country with great natural resources it is not remarkable that it has produced many great fortunes. But that is by no means its chief distinction. That men would rise from obscurity to wealth was to be expected and many have done so who were without much that could be termed greatness. It will be necessary, however to seek for some different explanation for those who with only a background of good sound blood have gained the heights of intellectual supremacy. The abundant products of the nation do not account for men of the type of Jonathan Edwards, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln or Daniel Webster. They came to us and are gone—a wonder and a mystery.

Need Such Books

Since we can never know too much of such figures, never spend too much time in their contemplation, we are always indebted to an author who can lay the career of any of them before us freshly and interestingly as Allan L. Benson has done in his recent life of Daniel Webster. He seems to know what is essential to the portrait of this great man and has the skill to present it through all the wondrous scenes of his life from the time he lay in the cradle on the northern frontier in New Hampshire until a multitude of ten thousand surrounded his bier at Marshfield. The story is well told. Those who read it will get a new record of an important period of our history and a faithful account of the acts and character of the greatest man of his time.

The general features of the life of Daniel Webster are fairly well known, the struggles of his youth, the hesitations of his early manhood, his school teaching period, his law studies at Boston, his first practice in New Hampshire ending in his election to Congress, his return to the Bar and his practice in Massachusetts, his election to the Senate, his service as secretary of state, his return to the senate and his final days as Secretary of State.

In these three fields his greatness developed step by step. He was a profound lawyer learned in his profession and a matchless advocate. He not only knew the law but knew how to apply it to the case in hand. As a tryer of cases he rose to the first place at the bar of the nation.

What has so seldom been done he did in becoming not only a great lawyer but a great senator. It was given him to comprehend legislation and understand public policies. His power of exposition when applied to political questions has never been surpassed.

His Varied Career

In the field of diplomacy he was likewise successful. His note to England settled the question of the search of our ships which a war had left undetermined so that it was never raised again, and his negotiation ended the boundary disputes that were seriously threatening to involve us in armed conflict.

Through all this varied career his chief power was his eloquence. He saw clearly and felt strongly. Yet his oratory was always of a practical nature. He painted no pictures merely to create beauty for its own sake but he illustrated his arguments with the wondrous gems of eloquence that he might the better convince his hearers. It was so in the Dartmouth College case, it was so in the Reply to Hayne. His love of country, his legal mind, his power of exposition inevitably made him the defender of the Constitution. Measured purely by the results of his arguments he ranks as the greatest orator of modern times. When he answered the proponents of nullification he saved the Union.

This life and works deserve far more study than they receive. Mr. Benson has brought into his book much material that I have not seen before in print. He has effectively answered many criticisms, correctly represented Mr. Webster as a great intellect, an able lawyer, a wise statesman, and left him also a human being entitled to our admiration, our sympathy, and our love.

CHARLES A. WEAVER CLOTHING STORE TO SUSPEND BUSINESS

C. A. WEAVER

Charles A. Weaver, proprietor of a clothing store at 13 E. Main St., for twenty-two of the twenty-five years a men's furnishing store has been operated at that location, revealed Thursday that the business will be discontinued. A closing out sale of the stock is now in progress.

The present lease of the store in the Schmidt Bldg. expires next year and Mr. Weaver announced that another location suitable for the business could not be found.

Mr. Weaver conducted a clothing store at its present location from 1903 to 1922. In the latter year he sold out to Oscar McDorman and C. H. Pumphrey. The present lease was originally assigned to McDorman and Pumphrey, former owners. Mr. Weaver bought back the store in January, 1928.

The entire three-story building, owned by H. E. Schmidt, was leased more than a year ago to Green Stores, Inc., Boston, Mass., for a period of ninety-nine years, renewable forever. This firm, which had operated a chain of 5, 10 and 25 cent stores in the vicinity of Boston, was recently consolidated with another nationally known organization, but the lease is not affected.

When all the rooms in the building are vacated by the present occupants sometime next year the structure is expected to be improved at a cost not less than $12,000 and the two store rooms on the ground floor, one occupied by the clothing store and the other vacant, will be thrown together for the chain store occupancy.

Pilot Saves Town

Citizens of Unionville, Mo., are loud in their praise of Robert W Radoll, airmail pilot who saved the town from destruction by fire. Flying the air mail from Kansas City to Chicago, Radoll saw flames shooting from a building and flew over the spot until the noise of his motor aroused the inhabitants.

More time to play

YOU can always find people to tell you that the country is going to the dogs because we're doing so much playing.

"When did your grandmother find any time to play? There was a woman for you!"

No doubt.

Just the same, we'd like to have given her a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine, electric lights, running hot water, a telephone, baker's bread, delicious canned foods, an automobile and a set of golf clubs.

Through advertising, science is giving us more and more time to play. Advertising is knocking minutes off every phase of household work from cooking to shopping, to give us leisure hours.

. . . and we're just using them as grandmother would have if she'd had the chance.

Read the advertising here in your paper.
It will bring more time to play.

DAYTON THERAPIST, CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Jack Karns, 54, sister of B. L. Hughey, Xenia, and for the last ten years occupational therapist and surgical artist at the National Military Home Hospital, Dayton, died at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, following a gall stone operation at the Military Hospital, Dayton.

Mrs. Karns is survived by her husband, Jack Karns; four children, Donald E. Karns and Norman Karns, Dayton, Miss Jessie Virginia Karns, Kansas City, Mo., and Randolph Karns of New York City; her father, John Hughey, Dayton, and three brothers, William Hughey and Dudley Hughey of Dayton and B. L. of Xenia.

Mrs. Karns served with the United States army during the World War under Col. Wayne Babcock at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, and Fort Oglethrope, as occupational therapist and surgical artist. In 1920 she became associated with the National Military Home Hospital, Dayton, where she inaugurated the work of occupational therapy.

Aside from her occupational therapy work, Mrs. Karns was an artist in sculpturing and has done a great deal of painting in oils. She also has written a number of articles for Dayton newspapers, and was a member of both the Dayton Women's Clubs and the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the arrival of Mrs. Karns' daughter, Miss Jessie Virginia Karns, who has been appearing in concert numbers with the Seeman Players in Kansas City.

Mrs. Karns resided in Dayton for the last thirty-five years. Prior to coming to Dayton, she resided in Hillsboro and near Washington C. H. with her parents.

RUM BOAT SEIZED WITH LIQUOR STOCK

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31—Coast guard guns today halted a 28-foot rum boat and resulted in the capture of its pilot and cargo of twenty cases of Canadian whiskey off the Lake Erie shore at 185th Street here.

The pilot of the craft attempted to escape by jumping overboard, but he was hauled aboard the coast guard cutter with boat hooks. He said he left Kingsville, Ont., with his cargo last night. The rum running boat was licensed to a Cleveland man.

HUNTER ARRESTED

MARYSVILLE, O., Oct. 31.—Sylvester Shaw, a young farmer of Mill Creek Twp., was arrested on a charge of hunting rabbits and pheasants out of season. He was arraigned before a justice of the peace and was fined $25 and costs, which he paid.

WATCH OUT FOR THIS YOUNG LADY AT BIG HALLOWE'EN REVEL THURSDAY NIGHT

HALLOWE'EN comes Thursday night and everyone will try to make himself look more ridiculous than he already looks.

The night offers an opportunity for everyone to satisfy that school-day instinct that adult dignity makes impossible.

All you have to do is disguise yourself, mingle with the mob at the merchants' celebration, bury your inhibitions, and cut-up like a school-boy on a holiday.

The recipe is simple. If you have a long nose, get a false-face which has a short nose. If you are smooth-shaven, wear a mustache. If you are thin, pad yourself with pillows and if you are a fat man, dress up like a woman.

Having attired yourself in this manner, join in the Hallowe'en parade in the downtown section at 7:30 o'clock, and you may win one of the fifty prizes provided by the Xenia Retail Merchants Association for the evening's festivities.

Three bands will help the merry-makers make merry, and there will be contests on a platform at Main St., entrance of the Court House after the parade.

Whatever you do, don't try to have a flirtation with, any-

the above picture. She is one of those goblins that you have heard about, and she'll get you if you don't watch out.

GIRL SCOUTING IS EXPLAINED HERE BY REGIONAL OFFICER

"A Girl Scout program is not an athletic program, but it is a way of living," said Miss Ray Mitchell, regional director, before a group of about thirty mothers of Girl Scouts and other women interested in Girl Scout work at a dinner meeting at Xenia Central High School cafeteria, Wednesday evening.

"Girl Scouts do practice health rules. They have good times for they learn to swim, to be good campers, to hike, make trails. They learn about nature and many other interesting things," said Miss Mitchell. "Not only do they learn things which are playful, but they learn to be helpful, to cook, sew and use first aid. The Girl Scout soon becomes of help to her home, her friends and her community. She learns how to live a fuller and richer life," Miss Mitchell says.

"Girls who have demonstrated their ability to live the Girl Scout ideals become Eaglets. All others receive badges of merit from time to time, not as prizes, but as recognition of things they can do."

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock by members of the High School Girl Scout Troop, No. 1. Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, president of the organization, presided at the after dinner meeting.

During the afternoon Miss Mitchell talked to a large number of girls throughout the city, explaining what Girl Scouting is and does for the girl, her family and her community. Miss Mitchell came to this city with much enthusiasm and much inspiration was received from her talks.

NATIONALIST HEAD TO OPPOSE REBELS

LONDON, Oct. 31. —President Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Nationalist Chinese government, was at Hankow today ready to lead his troops against the rebel Kuaminghun forces, according to dispatches from the far east.

The president indicated he intends to head a general offensive against the rebels.

Other reports from Hankow stated a severe battle in progress for five days in the snow-bound country west of Kinhan was continuing with undiminished vigor.

MISSIONARY MEET ENDS SESSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.— The 4,000 delegates to the annual convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which closed here last night, today are leaving this city for their respective homes.

At a collection last night, the delegates raised $168,750. Of this amount, there were 112 personal checks for $1,000 each.

Before adjourning, the delegates endorsed President Hoover's stand on law enforcement.

FEUD PROVES FATAL

CANTON, O., Oct. 31.—Holding a gambling feud as responsible for the death of James Dennis, 24, Coroner T. C. McQuate stated today that a second degree murder charge would be placed against Steve Stephens, 34. Dennis was fatally wounded Wednesday in Stephens' home here.

Justice Is Not Blind!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Justice is no longer dispensed by ignorant and individual domination. Another ancient prejudice stands convicted by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE which insists that a jury "twelve good men, tried and true" decide the facts.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which, in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

BABE NEEDS JOB, SAYS EDUCATOR

© Bachrach

Dr. Helen T. Woolley.

Even a three-month-old bady needs a job, says Dr. Helen T. Woolley, director of the Child Development Institute of Teachers college, Columbia university, New York. She explains that the special job of the wee babe is to learn to distinguish the faces of his parents from those of strangers, to discover its own tiny body and its surroundings. Dr. Woolley directs an experimental school for children of the well to do whose age range is from eighteen months to four years. Before going to Columbia, Dr. Woolley was psychologist at the Merrill Palmer school. Detroit.

PLANE TALK

By HARRY A. SUTTON
Of the Technical Staff,
The Aviation Corporation
(Written Expressly for International News Service)

3.—How the Wing Functions.

Two primary forces are involved in the function of an airplane wing: its lift and the force necessary to pull it along fast enough (flying speed) to give it that lift.

By measuring the air's action about various shapes of wing in wind-tunnel tests, science has determined which wing contours are most efficient, i. e., which afford maximum lift with minimum power requirements.

For high speed, a thin wing, with little resistance (drag), has been found best. For load-carrying, the thick wing, with high life, is preferable. For general use, an efficient combination of the two has been devised.

Here we have a medium-thick wing, its under surface gently concaved (lower camber) and its upper surface convexed (upper camber) in a slightly more pronounced arc. Passing over these surfaces, the air not only supports the wings directly from underneath but, because of a partial vacuum, by suction from above.

This suction on the upper surface of the wing exerts a major part of the air's total lift on both surfaces, varying with different cambers and speeds.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

NEW FICTION

Buchan—Courts of the Morning.

Mr. Buchan transports his veteran adventures of other tales to a South American state, which is fast becoming an oligarchy in the hands of the all powerful Castor, and which threatens the peace of the American continent. This story of mysterious adventure makes excellent reading.

Cleugh—Spring.

Two mothers, Mrs. Stanning of Boston and the Countess, Elna of Italy, have but a single thought; that of directing the affairs of the heart of their son and daughter. A charming story of young love in Italy. The Boston Transcript says of "Spring": "Very much at home in Italy is Mrs. Cleugh, exactly as she is in England and America. Her background in this story reminds one a little of the delicately etched work of Henry Harland when he wrote his novels of Italian life."

Burman—Mississippi.

Here are the real, living Mississippi people; pilots, negro roustabouts, candidates for assembly, poor white trash, a talkative barber, friendly judge, a dog, a cat—and a steamboat. It is the story of a river boy's loyalty, and the straits into which it leads him. The authoris on his own ground here, and can speak with fine understanding of the picturesque, unsophisticated inhabitants of the small river towns.

[T]hey—Growing Pains.

A story of the humorous tragedies of adolescence. The best book of its kind since Tarkington's "Seventeen", and one every father and mother who has a boy in his teens will chuckle over. A book too, in which every adult male reader will find his own salad days, written with humor and real insight into the curious psychology of the growing youth.

Chambers—Happy Parrot.

A tale of pirate ships, slave runners, a fair heroine and a valiant hero. The story is laid in the days of American shipping, preceding the war of 1812.

LADY IS HAPPY TO PAY TRIBUTE TO NEW KONJOLA

Relieved Of Obstinate Ailments—Praises New Medicine Highly.

"For years I suffered with stomach trouble", said Mrs. Dorothy Green, 14821 Lake Shore Boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio. "After every meal my stomach filled with gas and the pressure against my heart was very painful. The attacks of gastritis came over me without warning, and the pain was terrible. Then, too, I had a burning sensation in my stomach that was far from pleasant.

"But Konjola proved to be the very medicine I needed. Just as I was told it would do, Konjola worked quickly. After a few week's treatment of Konjola there was not a sign of my former stomach troubles. What a relief to be [illegible] again; what a joy to be able to eat as a normal person should. I can readily understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends".

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

WILLIAM MARTIN, FORMER XENIAN, IS HOTEL FIRE VICTIM

William A. Martin, 54, member of a formerly well known Xenia family, lost his life in a fire which destroyed the Hotel Portland, Seattle, Wash., October 17, friends here have learned. He had made his home at the Hotel Portland during the two years he had lived in Seattle. He was unmarried. Seven persons met death in the hotel fire.

Mr. Martin was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John P. Martin of Xenia, and was born and spent his early life here. His father, who was well known in Ohio and in the East as a promoter of public utilities, was instrumental in obtaining for Xenia its water system in 1886. He also owned for a time, the city's first electric light plant, which was sold to him in 1887 after it had been municipally operated at a loss. He was a member of the old state board of public works under ex-Governor Campbell.

The son is survived by a brother and two sisters: John Martin of Fullerton, Cal., and the Misses Margaret and Nelle Martin, Washington, D. C. His burial took place in Seattle.

The Martin family home in Xenia was at Second and West Sts., the property now being owned by Mrs. Josephine Baldwin.

DR. CHARTERS WILL BE VESPER SPEAKER

Professor Lincoln R. Gibbs, of Antioch College, has announced that Dr. W. W. Charters, director of the bureau of educational research at Ohio State University, will be the speaker at the Antioch vesper service in the college chapel at Yellow Springs on Sunday, November 3, at five o'clock.

Dr. Charters has gained prominence in educational circles as one of the leading advocates of scientific research as a means of solving educational problems. In co-operation with Dr. Douglas Waples, of the University of Chicago, he recently published a voluminous study of the professional activities of teachers. The study was made at the suggestion of the Commonwealth Fund, which sponsored it, and is intended to help furnish a scientific basis for teacher training. It shows for the first time in accurate detail every step which goes into the teacher's work, and indicates the lines along which training should take place.

ADMITS BURGLARY OF EAST END HOME

Paul Estridge, 23, colored, Orchard St., arrested Wednesday by Patrolmen Charles Thompson and George Robinson, confessed, police say, to burglarizing the home of James Pace, colored, E. Market St., early Sunday morning and stealing a .38 caliber revolver, Spanish make, a watch, $6 in cash and a lodge pin. The pin was pawned at Dayton. Estridge broke into the house through a window, he said. An affidavit charging him with burglary and larceny is expected to be filed.

Donald and Gordon Kyle of O. S. U., spent Sabbath with their parents.

The district Sabbath School convention was held at the Pitchin Church Sabbath afternoon. Large delegations from the two Clifton churches were in attendance.

Mrs. Robert Choate of Toledo is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Mary Collins.

Rev. Ralph Fox of the village Presbyterian Church will preach each evening this week at the Norris Memorial Presbyterian Church of Columbus and also on next Sabbath morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reed entertined Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neasler and daughter Margaret and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. Aden Barlow of Cedarville.

The community sale for the benefit of the Presbyterian Church amounted to $1500.

On Trial for Fraud

DECORATIONS TO AID HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

Half the fun of the Hallowe'en party is planning the decorations. You may make them all of paper, or you may use various other mediums. The colors are always the same—yellow, or rather orange—and black. The centerpiece pictured has witches and black cats surrounding the bowl of fruit. Ingeniously devised cats decorate the backs of the chairs. Pumpkin head hobgoblins would answer the same purpose. The combined place card and favor may be made by attaching the card to a roll of candy in orange paper with twisted petal ends. The entrance to the dining room may be effective with branches of trees draped with paper moss with cleverly made owls, black cats and witches guarding it. A jolly game to include in the evening's entertainment is Capturing the Owl. A balloon or large ball is used with the figure of an owl painted or pasted on it. The players sit in a circle and the one chosen to be "it" tries to capture the owl. The one from whom the capture is finally made is then "it."

GARDEN CLUB NOTES

Bulbs for the spring garden may be planted in November: they should be planted to a depth four times as great as the size of the bulb; to avoid rot, they should be laid on the side to prevent water soaking into the crown, and a pocket of sand should be placed around each bulb. Daffodils, which never grow so well in this country as in England, because of the more rigorous cold of our winters, like a moist, cool atmosphere, and in the summer should have some shade,—but they should be planted where, at the blooming season in the spring, they will be in the sun. The best fertilizers are bone meal and wood ashes, which should be used at only a moderate rate.

Last year the nurserymen gave warning that this season the price of bulbs would be higher: a prediction which has turned out to be true. American grown bulbs did not prove satisfactory, and the embargo on imported bulbs was lifted, but the trans-oceanic shipments were made in too warm weather, and millions of bulbs rotted, with something of a shortage as a result.

CAMP CHASE MYSTERY LETTERS ARE FINALLY BEING DELIVERED

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—"The Mystery Letters of Camp Chase" written to and by Confederate prisoners during the Civil War, 67 years ago, are at last being delivered.

The "mystery letters" are so-called because although most of them were posted in April, 1862, none was ever delivered to the addressee and no satisfactory explanation has been given as to why they were not. They were properly posted and, according to historians, compiled with all federal restrictions as to both length and content. They bore the "okay" of federal war-time censorship authorities, but still they never reached their destinations.

Go To Heirs

The letters are now being delivered—not to the original addressee, of course, but to sons, daughters, grandchildren and nieces and nephews who survive—through the efforts of the Ohio Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Scores of letters have been received by Mrs. Albert Sidney Porter, president of the Ohio division of the Daughters of the Confederacy, who is in charge of restoring the letters. More than seventy-five of the yellowed, frayed letters bearing faded marks of handwriting have already been turned over to their proper destination.

Although most of them were originally addressed to persons in Alabama, Louisiana, Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and Arkansas, the letters are finding their destinations now in scattered parts of the world.

One letter found its destination, Mrs. Sue Keller of Harrodsburg, Ky. She wrote Mrs. Porter that she is the daughter of Nimrod Harris.

"I am so excited over the prospect of getting those letters directed to my sainted father that I cannot guide my pen," she wrote, "especially as one of them was written to my precious mother, I am now 77 years old, so was quite a little girl when my father was put in prison; but I can remember the anguish of my lovely mother."

Written at Easter

Most of the "mystery letters" were apparently written on Easter Day, in 1862. For the most part they are concerned with assurances of the prisoner's health and safety and for the welfare of those at home.

One letter from Reese T. Wood bade his wife not to be grieved over his confinement.

"Do the best you can," he wrote. "You and the children must go ahead. I hope we may meet one time more in this life."

There are 240 of the "mystery letters." For some time they have been in the State Library at Columbus. By a joint resolution passed by the Ohio State Legislature on Lincoln's birthday, 1929, they were turned over to the Ohio Division of the Daughters of the Confederacy for the purpose of restoring them to the descendants of the persons who wrote them or to whom they were addressed.

A QUESTION ANSWERED

Oct. 30, 1929.

Editor Gazette,

Dear Sir:

Recently "Two Citizens of Xenia" were standing at the corner of Main and Detroit Sts., discussing the coming Community Chest Drive. One asked the other, "Why do they pay a woman a big salary to run the Social Service League when the money that goes to pay her salary could be used to buy food and clothing for people who are starving?" The other replied, "That's what I would like to know myself, and a whole lot of other people would too." They did not come to the Community Chest Headquarters in the City Building to get an answer to their question, but their conversation was overheard and drifted into headquarters. So, for the benefit of "Two Citizens of Xenia" and "a whole lot of other people", I would be very grateful if you will print the following in your paper.

In the first place this woman does not receive a big salary. I doubt very much if either of the "Two Citizens" would do the large amount of work and very helpful work the office requires for the recompense received.

Secondly, this one woman is the secretary of both the Social Service League and the Red Cross of America, combining the work of two secretarial positions in one office and for the salary of only one position.

And again, "Where are the people who are starving?"

Anyone who is in need will receive attention by calling at the Social Service and Red Cross office in the Dakin Bldg. By attention, please understand, I mean that their case will be investigated and if their cause is worthy I am certain that they will be given the proper assistance. If the "Two Citizens" or anyone knows of any family that they think have not been treated fairly, please call at the office where those in charge will be glad to show you what has been done for the family in question.

Today's charity problems call for someone to help people out, not to help them on. They call for a person who can educate the unfortunate to care for themselves, not to continually take care of them. They call for a person who can blend business notes with heart beats; one who knows when to give and what to give. The executive committee of the Community Chest is confident of the ability of the present secretary to do these things.

Very Sincerely Yours,
I. M. Hyman,
Sec. Ex. Committee
Xenia Community Chest.

Editor's Note: The executive committee will glady answer any questions pertaining to the Community Chest through the columns of The Gazette or by calling at Chest Headquarters in the City Building.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ACTORS OF ETHER WORLD HAVE RADIO GUILD LIKE STAGE FOLK

RADCLIFFE IS KNOWN AS THE BELASCO OF THE "MIKE".

VERNON RADCLIFFE

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Not to be outdone by the legitimate theaters with their guilds and what-not, the air has its own Radio Guild now. It is headed by a famous director of ether dramas, Vernon Radcliffe. He is "the Belasco of the 'mike!'"

The Powers-that-be say it is only a matter of a short time until the shows on the air will be advertised as they are in the theater under such heads as "Vernon Radcliffe Production." And that they will run the "talkies" and the drama theaters a close race for popularity. Television, of course, will make that highly probable.

The writer, under an assumed name, arranged for a tryout in the air drama a few days ago. It was an interesting and enlightening experience. There were about two dozen excited men and women—some young, some old, waiting in the hall to go into the audition room. A gray-haired woman smiled:

"Aren't you just petrified. I've been on the stage thirty years and there's something about a 'mike' that slays my nerve. I know I'm going to simply babble. Did he give you anything to read?"

I informed the lady that I was slightly palpitating around the heart and that I hadn't the slightest idea what I was going to do. Finally, the door opened and my non de plume was called. Near the "mike" stood a young woman with a manuscript—and the director who was to hear the auditions was in the control room. It is enclosed in glass and he can watch the speaker. The voice comes out to the control room just as it goes out to the radio fans.

The manuscript was a scene in the park. A young lady was telling her artist lover that she knew it was hard for him to work when he wanted beauty and lovely things—but that he must try for her sake to be a success. After a few lines the director came out smiling:

"You've got a good radio voice, young lady. Now, no one is going to hurt you. Don't be afraid to put your heart and soul into every word. Remember there are millions out there hanging on your every word. They can't see you. It all depends upon you and the 'mike'."

Then he changed the manuscript to a horse race and I had a perfectly grand time imagining I had a lot of money up on a certain lovely horse and that he was winning! That was easier.

But, the director lets you leave the studio without any comment—and the young lady says:

"If you have passed the test you will be notified when needed."

Ah, that going home and waiting. Like taking an exam in school when you were a kid. (For your own secret information I did pass—and will be on the air in a drama very soon. More about this later.)

Veterans Find It Hard

Seasoned veterans of the stage become exasperated trying to keep their voices down—and getting the proper emotion for the "mike." That is the clever Mr. Radcliffe's job—seeing that when they are supposed to be outside the house talking they get far enough away and muffle their voices—and a thousand other things.

It is easier than a stage play in the respect that you don't have to learn your lines. They always are read. But there are a lot of other things that make being a performer on the air not so hotsy.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Wins $75,000 for Thaw's Spanking

Marcia Estardus, Broadway entertainer, was awarded $75,000 by a jury in her suit against Harry K. Thaw, alleging assault. She had sued for $100,000, charging the Pittsburgh millionaire had beaten her with a hair brush in his apartment on New Years Day in 1927.

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers — especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

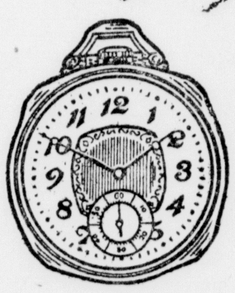

The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

paper. Half-eaten sandwiches and half-consumed cans of coffee lay on tables. Occasionally, one saw played-out junior clerks fast asleep on counters.

The financial district was as brilliantly illuminated, almost, as Broadway. Lights blazed in the windows of the skyscrapers along the narrow canyons of Wall, Broad and Nassau Streets and lower Broadway. In contrast Trinity Church, dark as night, its spires piercing the sky, stood out like a lone sentinel guarding a bivouacked army.

Police officers, clad in "slickers" as protection against the light drizzle, paced to and fro in the vicinity of the stock exchange, and the half-lighted offices of J. P. Morgan and company directly across the street, and in front of the high pillared sub-treasury building, criss cornered from Morgans. Now and then a banker emerged from the Morgan office and stole into the night, perhaps to get a bite to eat.

Restaurants and speakeasies in the neighborhood were thronged. Waiters carrying loads of lunches picked their way through the narrow thoroughfares. Messenger boys on bicycles sped along the slippery pavements. The telegraph companies' offices remained open all night, as did many of the restaurants.

Automobiles by the hundreds, including many Rolls Royces, were parked along the curbs all over the financial district. Liveried chauffeurs sat patiently waiting for the "boss" to call it a day—or a night. Now and then workers emerged from the illuminated skyscrapers and scurried up the street and disappeared into one of the subway kiosks.

In the streets, as well as in practically every office in the district groups of men gathered and discussed the market as assiduously as politicians discuss the issues and the candidates while waiting for the returns on election night.

"Well, well, did you see where John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and his son were buying stocks?

"And what do you think of that 1 to 36-point jump in the market?"

Everybody seemed to be happier. More cheerful about their own personal fortunes and the welfare of their country. Whereas early in the week billions of dollars in market values had been wiped out, yesterday saw a gain of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 and the gloom and optimism which stalked through Wall Street Monday and Tuesday gave away to a conservative optimism and a feeling that better days are ahead.

COTTON STOCKINGS

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, the prettiest girl in the high school graduating class at Rendale, Pa., a mining and brick yard village, is stunned by the death of her widowed mother, the town seamstress. She is left penniless and totally unequipped to combat the world. The day after graduation Neil McKinley, her childhood playmate, who lived across the street, begins to show an interest in her for the first time in years. He has dates with her, and calls her his "new little sweetheart." After the death of Mrs. March, Kenessa Du Barry, formerly of Rendale, a burlesque actress, comes home to visit her mother, and offers Rosalie two dresses and half of her bankroll of fifteen dollars so that she may go to Philadelphia and find a job. Rosalie quarrels with Neil because he does not approve of Kenessa. She leaves without saying good-bye to him.

In the city Rosalie goes to Mother Murphy's boarding house. Mother has the heart of a saint, and takes her in as though she were a helpless baby.

Tim O'Hara, the corner newsie, tells Rosalie to go to a store advertising for girls when she asks him for a copy of the paper with the most ads in it. Tim, red-headed and freckled, falls in love with her and calls Rosalie "Queen."

The next morning, when Rosalie is to report for work, she discovers a "run" in her only pair of silk stockings. Heart sick, she puts on the old cotton ones.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

Ann Schultz had been at the Boggs and Clarke hosiery counter for four years.

Her chief woe was that a strict order had gone through that no one was allowed to chew gum. Old Peter Clarke had issued the boomerang himself.

Ann's remark when he strutted by importantly that day had been: "If you told that old buzzard to go jump in the lake he'd think you wanted him to show you some fancy divin'."

Plump and peroxided and in her early twenties was Ann. She was an unmerciful jollier. Sometimes new girls in the store found her quips quite painful until they got used to her. But nearly everyone liked her after they had known her awhile.

She had a sharp tongue—and was never averse to dishing a little dirt or tuning in on what-was-what among the employes. But mostly she was quite harmless.

Rosalie was early her first morning and stood around uncertainly, after having been shown where to punch the time clock and where she was to work. She was behind the counter when Ann breezed up.

"Hello, Helpful; you the new assist?"

"I'm she," Rosalie smiled timidly.

"My gawd. The kid's gone Tunney and got grammatical on us. If you're SHE that makes me IT."

Ann posed haughtily:

"Good mawning SHE!"

Rosalie answered gravely.

"Good morrow, IT."

They burst out laughing, and the ice was broken. But Rosalie, her mind constantly on her cotton stockings as Ann uncovered the counter and she saw the beautiful silken hose in all their temptation, could not smile again.

Ann always looked everyone over critically. She stared at Rosalie's chestnut hair, blue eyes and dimples and quite approved. The girl was a hot looker. The dress. It was certainly up to the minute—but a little too grown-up for the kid.

When Rosalie walked away and Ann got a look at her stockings she gasped. It couldn't be true! She rushed up to Rosalie and bent and felt her legs.

"Smother me black and blue—I didn't know they made 'em any more."

Her eyes stared at Rosalie incredulously.

"What have you got them awful stockings on for? Where'd you get 'em?"

Rosalie felt faint with embarrassment. She tried so hard to smile as though she didn't care.

"They're—they're some old ones I used to wear to school. All my silk ones had runs in them this morning when I put them on."

"Yeah," Ann grinned, not realizing how cruel she was being, "got cotton underwear on, too? Or red flannels?"

Rosalie did have a cotton chemise. Her face flamed until the red mounted to the roots of her hair. When she turned away and didn't answer, Ann laughed heartily at her own joke:

"Well, believe me, kid, Nobody in the store can say you ain't a good, decent respectable girl, anyway!"

A minute later Ann was penitent when she saw tears in Rosalie's eyes.

"Gee, kid, I didn't mean to get your nanny like that. I didn't mean no harm. Come on, snap out of it. Sometimes I just try to be too funny."

Rosalie accepted her apology as gracefully as she could and squared her little jaw. This was no way to start her first day of work. Anyway she didn't have a lot of awful stuff on her hair that made it look like straw—and all that paint on her face! Suddenly she felt just a little superior to the plump Ann.

Ann stood by while she waited on the first few customers and when they weren't busy she told her about the stock. She was surprised to see how quickly the new girl caught on.

A girl came from another counter that wasn't so busy to relieve them at noon.

"Come on, beautiful," Ann said then, "let's put on the feed bag."

"Hello, Helpful, you the new assis t?"

Rosalie had intended going without lunch. But Ann added:

"There's a cafeteria upstairs where you can get a swell sandwich and coffee for fifteen cents. We all go there."

It was painful for Rosalie to step from behind the counter and display her cotton hose. Ann knew that was what was worrying her and put an arm around her.

"An, you're fussin' about the crack I made about your stockings. Forget it. Nobody'll see 'em. Besides, it ain't against the law, is it?"

As Ann and Rosalie moved around the rail in the cafeteria Rosalie turned just in time to see Ann point to her stockings. Ann blushed—which was rare for her—and Rosalie almost stumbled to their table with her sandwich and coffee.

She felt that every eye in the room was upon her. Of course, the shiny silk dress was a tremendous contrast to the old school-day hosiery. Ann tried to cover her faux pas with inane chatter—but Rosalie felt little relief. She didn't see how she could possibly get through the day.

She had only a dollar and a half left. That she would have to save for lunch and carfare until the end of the week. If she didn't go to lunch Ann would be sure to kid her about that—and Rosalie would never admit she hadn't money enough.

Hundreds of lovely stockings danced before her eyes. There were lights shining on the sheer silk to make it look more sheer and more tempting to the daughters of Eve that came in a constant stream to the counter.

Suddenly an idea popped into Rosalie's head and almost dizzied her. She cast it away but it persisted. Why not take a pair of the hose and put the money in the till Saturday?

All week long with the stares and giggles of the hundreds of girls in the store would drive her mad.

Would it be stealing? It couldn't be! It would just be borrowing them.

Broadway Beauty

Inez Norton, sweetheart of the late Arnold Rothstein, who will appear on the Broadway stage shortly in a play called "Dark Hands," now in rehearsal. When Rothstein was king of gamblers and reputed financial lord of the underworld, Inez Norton was the uncrowned queen. After Rothstein's murder she attempted to collect for his estate some of the vast sums owed him. In his will, which was afterwards disputed, Rothstein made ample provision for her.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

Alice Brady as "Anna" and Otto Kruger as "Karl" carry the play "Karl and Anna" by Leonhard Frank, the German, as produced by the New York Theater Guild, if the opinions of the reviewers may be believed.

The Guild is pleasing the Gotham critics with their present piece, and that's a difficult assignment. The depressed desire of soldiers and the wives they left behind them are psychoanalyzed in the play, in which Frank has torn a dozen or so pages from Freud and bespattered them with the mud of the trenches. Superb acting of Miss Brady and Kruger make the play, as presented, what it is.

Based on the general premise that the soldier thinks more of women than of death, "Karl and Anna" thus takes issue with another psychological war play, "Journey's End" Karl and his friend Richard are fellow German prisoners in a Russian camp. Richard is forever glorifying his wife, Anna. He tells of her beauty, her virtues and of domestic details until Karl feels that he knows Anna as well as Richard—and better.

"Would you let me kiss Anna just once when we get back home", pleads Karl.

"Maybe I will let you kiss her once", finally agrees Richard. "But if there were ever a second time I should kill you."

Karl escapes from the prison camp and goes immediately to the wife of Richard. It is a strange psychological scene when they meet. They have never seen each other before but something within each draws them together.

"I am Richard, your husband", whispers Karl.

"How can you say such a thing, you know you are not", protests Anna.

"You know you have been waiting for me for years and I have known you always", declares Karl.

A smug, dirty Richard shuffles into the tidy, comfortable Berlin home that he has dreamed about in the muck of the trenches. He is surprised to meet Karl entering the door, embraces him and invited him to wait for Anna and then stay for dinner. Anna returns. She and Karl tell Richard they love each other. Richard seizes an axe and rushes at Karl. Anna throws herself before the weapon. Richard slumps down on the bed.

"You may have Anna", he mutters to Karl.

That it is the outside of the triangle of the trenches. But it is the inside of the three souls involved which makes it a play to see, or rather feel.

One nice thing about Nancy Carroll is that she is always pleasing to look at and anyone who doesn't agree is just an old meanie.

If Baby has COLIC

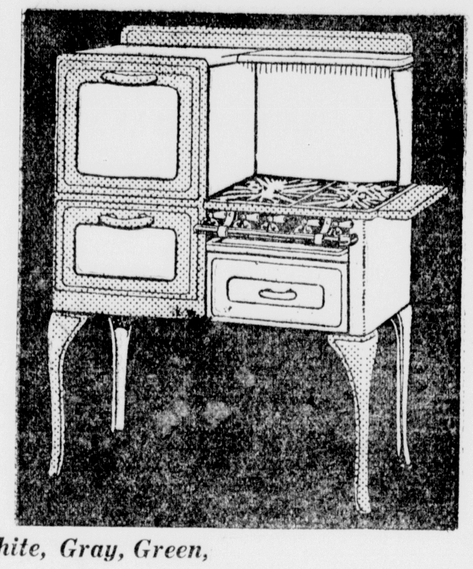

A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

"I am so happy
..that the last pimple is gone"

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

HOOVER DEMANDS TARIFF

Robinson Blames Administration For Collapse

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Now that the worst of the stock market debacle is believed over, official and political Washington began today to emerge from the storm-cellars, appraise the damages, assay the results and peer as best it can into what the immediate future holds.

There were three aspects of the situation today that particularly engaged the attention of the legislative and executive branches of the government.

1.—As a result of the crash, which followed an extended period of high, wide and handsome public speculation, it is now considered certain that a real effort will be made in the approaching regular session of congress to place a curb on speculative activities. A number of senators are working on legislative methods to accomplish this. Among them is Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, a former secretary of the treasury, who favors the institution of a special tax, say 5 per cent, on stocks that are turned over within a sixty-day period.

2.—There is real concern felt at the treasury and in administration quarters generally over the enormous shrinkage of governmental income that inevitably will result from the collapse of stock prices. Billions of anticipated profits have been wiped out, and this will automatically be reflected in income tax returns.

3.—The Democrats are going to make as much political capital out of the calamity as they possibly can, with an eye to next year's congressional elections, and the national election of 1932.

Evidence of this latter activity was speedily forthcoming today on the heels of the market's semi-stabilizafion.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, who as Governor Al Smith's running mate last year, writhed under the calm and superior prosperity claims of the Republicans, came out today with a statement in which he laid a major share of the blame for the collapse directly at the door of the Coolidge-Hoover administration.

Robinson gave fair warning that the Democrats are going to shout from a thousand stumps in next year's campaign, "Where is your prosperity now?"

"If," said Robinson, "the foundation of the belief of ruined investors was faith in the strong position of American industry it is also true that the prophets and high priests of American prosperity, represented by no less personalities than a former president of the United States (Coolidge), the secretary of the treasury (Mellon), and a former secretary of commerce (Hoover) now president, contributed, by unduly and repeated optimistic statements, to the creation of enthusiastic if not frenzied ventures in stocks.

"The good faith of these gentlemen may not be impugned except insofar as their zeal is justly attributed to the desire for that partisan political advantage which is so often derived from real or fancied business conditions.

"Had the Democratic party been in power when the stampede on the stock exchange occurred, the ruinous results would have been charged by Republican leaders to financial policies of the administration."

Robinson's statement was ironical with reference to how the administration met the crisis.

Whatever the cause for it, he said, "it must be admitted that neither the president nor the secretary of the treasury (the greatest, we are told, since, Hamilton) nor any other agent or leader of the administration, took adequate steps to prevent the collapse which they should have known must follow the orgy of speculation, stimulated by their utterances."

After expressing hope for speedy recovery and readjustment, the Democratic leader concluded with the hope also "that in the future prudence and sound judgment will predominate; that political authorities will refrain from fanning speculative enthusiasm into a flame and then refusing to quench the flame before it has consumed so much of the wealth and destroyed so much of the happiness of blameless and innocent people."

Not much clearer indication could be given of the Democrats' determination to make the most of the situation.

One other result of the market crash was seen today—it has apparently increased the administration's determination to try to force the tariff bill to enactment. President Hoover has sent word to administration leaders at the capitol that he wants the tariff bill passed as soon as possible. Heretofore, the White House has preserved silence regarding the bill.

SCARLET FACES?

Corrected by Elsie Ferguson, the star, for speaking her lines too quickly, the little Georgia girl slowed up at the next performance until she reached the climax of the act. Here she calmly, and with much nonchalance, blew a puff of cigarette smoke in the star's face.

The next night an understudy played Miss Council's part.

EXPECT CLEMENTEL WILL IGNORE PARTY IN NAMING CABINET

Will Sweep Aside Party Lines In Filling Posts

PARIS, Oct. 31—Senator Etienne Clementel today was expected to take the bull by the horns and reveal a new cabinet containing men he thinks will most strengthen his government, without regard for party affiliations.

Although theoretically a member of the Radical-Socialist party, M. Clementel has never let himself be ruled by the dictates of any party.

He is sufficiently radical in some of his views to gain the goodwill of a good many members of the Left parties, yet his radicalism does not go so far as to make him unacceptable to the right, or conservative groups.

His government, it is believed, will, if formed, attempt to carry on the financial policy of former Premier Poincare, which proved so successful, while developing the foreign policy of former Premier Briand, with its promise of peace and security.

M. Briand, himself, is expected to take the portfolio of foreign minister in the new government, while Clementel is expected either to take the finance ministry himself or give it to Andre Cheron.

The other posts, it is expected, will be sprinkled among the Radical and Center parties. This should bring to Clementel at least the partial support of all parties and enough votes in the chamber of deputies to insure him a stable administration, it is believed.

Following the futile effort of M. Daladier to form a cabinet, it is hardly believed the Left parties can afford to refuse any post offered them by Clementel. The inability of the Left parties to agree among themselves when M. Daladier was trying to form the cabinet made it appear certain today that Clementel's cabinet will have a government far less radical in complexion than was thought possible a week ago.

One thing appears certain. If Clementel is successful in his attempt to form a new government, there will be little or no change in France's policy on disarmament and reparations.

ARTIST PEEVED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Declaring it published a picture and article in which it was stated he wore a beard to "confuse people," Albert Hirschfield, artist, has entered a $100,000 libel suit against the theatrical weekly, Variety, it was revealed today.

CLEVELAND PAYING TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF SENATOR BURTON

Crowds Pass Through Music Hall To View Remains

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31. — A silver-gray casket, bearing the body of Ohio's revered Senator Theodore E. Burton, accompanied by relatives and friends and a governmental cortege, arrived in Union Station here at 8:45 a. m. today.

Reverently, through long lanes of bare headed, solemn-faced persons, who stood in morning mist from gloomy, overcast skies, the casket was slowly walked to the funeral car in which, under military escort, it was taken to Public Hall to be given the tribute of the peoples of a great state.

The body of Senator Burton was brought here to lie in state for three hours in Public Hall amid the scenes of his early political struggles, and finally to be placed in its last resting place at Lake View Cemetery in a plot of ground only a few yards from the grave of his life-long friend, the late ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick.

A host of local, state and federal dignitaries—life long friends of the veteran statesman—and thousands of awed spectators had stood in the drizzling rain for an hour or more to pay homage.

As the funeral special pulled into the Union Station, the first to alight were the immediate family of the deceased senator, followed by a score or more of United States senators and congressmen, designated by their respective houses to represent them at the funeral.

An awe-inspiring silence pervaded as the casket was lifted from the train—national guardsmen and police stood at attention and saluted, the throng bared their head sand bowed in mute tribute as it was carried and placed in the funeral car.

The funeral procession, led by an escort of soldier sand mounted police proceeded slowly to the Public Hall, where the body will lie in state until 1:15 p. m. to receive tribute from thousands of Clevelanders.

Promptly at 9:30 a. m. the doors of Music Auditorium at Public Hall were thrown open. Then began a seemingly endless parade of thousands of Clevelanders and Ohioans—rich and poor man, alike—before the flag-draped casket which rested on the foyer in Music Hall.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF LIQUOR FAVORED

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31.—Governmental control and sale of liquor had the approval of the voters of the province of Ontario.

Practically complete returns of the provincial election indicated Premier G. Howard Ferguson's Conservative government had been returned to power by an overwhelming majority.

ARMOUR IS SUED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Tommy Armour, leading professional golfer and one-time national open champion, is being sued for separation by his wife, the former Consuelo Carreras, it became known today. Mrs. Aromur, according to her attorney, accuses her husband of running away with a woman from Washington, D. C. She also charges he has failed to support her or their seven-year-old son.

DECLARES LAW MUST BE ENACTED BEFORE SENATE ADJOURNED

Insurgents Cheer Statement; Many Regulars Give Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Hoover has at last wielded the lash of presidential authority to prevent complete abandonment of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, with the result that the senate prepared today to continue its tedious work of writing the rates of the measure.

With some of the administration Republicans of the senate announcing themselves in favor of adjournment of the special session on November 15, with the implied intention of letting the tariff bill go into the discard, Mr. Hoover notified senatorial leaders there must be a tariff law enacted.

Sen. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, announced the President's stand following a conference at the White House, which Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, and Claudius H. Huston, Republican national chairman, also attended.

The conference followed the declaration of Sen. Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, one of the leaders in the fight for a high tariff bill, that the senate might as well adjourn Nov. 15 and forget about a tariff bill. Sens. Edge (R) of N. J., and Moses (R) of N. H., also have indicated they have no hope of tariff legislation, due to the defeat of administration Republicans by the Democratic - Progressive Republican coalition.

Senator Reed Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee has steadfastly refused to yield to the proposals of other administration Republicans.

"Not with my consent; I want to go right ahead and finish the bill," he said after hearing of the Reed suggestion to quit Nov. 15.

"There must be a tariff bill. That has been my position from the outset. I am not ready to say the senate is impotent and unable to legislate," said Watson. "The president insists there must be a bill."

News of the president's attitude was received with cheers by Insurgent Republicans. They have consistently wanted tariff legislation enacted and have intimated regular Republicans are filibustering.

Whether the president's stand means he is accepting the program of the Democratic-Progressive Republican coalition to boost agricultural rates and confine industrial increases to a few "sick industries" was still a matter of debate.

It was pointed out, however there is every indication the senate bill will be written by the coalition. Some compromises—perhaps elimination of the export debenture plan—may come in conference with the house.

Sen. Borah (R) of Idaho, a leader of the insurgents, has opposed the Nov. 15 adjournment plan, saying he wanted to go right ahead with the bill.

WALKING IN RAIN IS NO SONG

Bob Shoemaker, who was serving a sentence in the Gallipolis jail for stealing escaped from the bastile late Tuesday night in company with two other men.

But the rain proved too much for Shoemaker. He stopped at the home of Marshal Lloyd Hysel of Middleport late yesterday afternoon and asked him if he would telephone the sheriff at Gallipolis and ask him to come after him as it was too wet to stay out and too far to walk. The distance is seventeen miles.

Shoemaker is back in jail today.

GRAND JURY PROBES WINTERS FAILURE

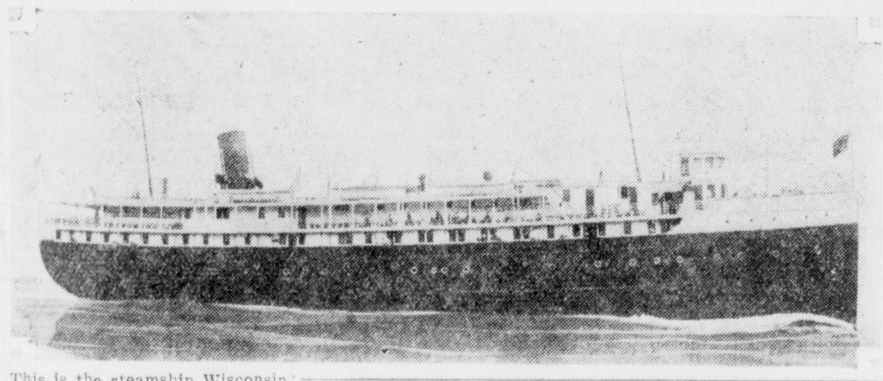

DAYTON, O., Oct. 31.—A grand jury investigation is to be made into the circumstances surrounding the failure of the Jonathan H. Winters Company, a banking concern here.

This became certain today when Common Pleas Judge Robert C. Patterson ordered the legal procedure.

A substantial decline in the assets of the company, from $1,138,871 to $309,052, is to be probed to determine whether the directors of the company are criminally liable.

NINE LOSE LIVES WHEN LAKE STEAMER SINKS

This is the steamship Wisconsin which sank in Lake Michigan off Kenosha, Wis., early today (October 29) after a struggle against wind and wave which will go down in the annals of the lake as an epic. Bodies of nine members of the crew were taken into Kenosha harbor by coast guardsmen. Sixty-four of the Wisconsin's personnel were saved.

CASH DIVIDENDS TO HOLDERS OF COMMON STOCK HALTS FEARS

Many Corporations Adopt Action To Restore Confidence

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Following the action of United States Steel Corporation and American Can Corporation in declaring special cash dividends to holders of common stock, announcement was made today of similar extra dividend declarations by directors of other industrial companies.

United Dairy Products Corporation declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, increasing the dividend rate from 4 to 5 per cent.

Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company, one of the largest and most important American manufacturers of hardware, declared a special dividend of $1 a share payable to stock of record December 2.

Directors of Marmon Motor Car Company, at a special meeting of the directors at Indianapolis today, declared the regular dividend of one dollar a share, in advance of the regular dividend period. This action was taken, according to a statement by the officials of the company "to allay the feelings of apprehension that has been evident throughout the country as a result of the disastrous stock market collapse, and to inspire public confidence that they realize that no matter what the fivrations of a wild market does to securities, the earnings and the assets of our great basic industries are fundamentally secure."

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—Tribute to some of the larger corporations of the country for their promptitude in meeting the stock market emergency and hurling their power for its rally, was giving by Cyrus S. Eaton, prominent financier, in a statement issued today.

Pointing out that the decline of the stock market on Tuesday following preceding breaks, was so great that no opportunity was given for concerted action between the banks and the great corporations throughout the country, Eaton expressed confidence that should such a deflation again threaten, similar leadership will manifest itself.

Buying power of the Eaton-Mather-Otis group here is believed to have been one of the "life savers" of the stock market, causing it to rally from Monday's deflation. This group is regarded as the owner of the largest collection of steel stocks in the country.

Faith in the security markets was also expressed by James A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Steel and Tube Co. He asserted he has been buying stocks during the break and stated that in his belief the climax of the stock market decline has been reached.

CYCLIST KILLED

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—A 68-year-old cyclist, Frederick M. Falk, proprietor of a shoe repairing and dry cleaning shop here, is dead today as the result of injuries which he sustained when he was thrown from his bicycle after it was struck by an automobile.

COALITION MAY ASK OFFICIAL CENSURE FOR LOBBYING CASE

HERE'S THE ANSWER

LONDON, Oct. 31.— Here is the Prince of Wales's own explanation of why he doesn't marry as given in an article written by Evelyn Graham in the magazine "Britania and I," published today.

"During twelve hours of every day, I have to be what other people want me to be," the writer quotes the prince. "During the rest of the time, I can be myself. If I married, I should have to spend the rest of my time being what my wife wanted me to be."

HALLOWE'EN DRESS ENABLES BANDIT TO ROB THEATER OWNER

Rowdyism Is Reported; Ring Curfew At West Jefferson

By International News Service

Police of all Ohio cities today are making final preparations to forestall any Hallowe'en rowdyism tonight.

Many instances of it, and one deed of actual violence, have already been reported.

A bandit, who was disguised as a woman in a masquerade costume, entered the Ohio Theater at Mansfield last night, shot and seriously wounded A. E. Ratser, the manager, and escaped wth the receipts, which aggregated approximately $700. No accurate description of the robber could be gained because of the Hallowe'en costume.

At St. Clairsville, police are searching for Hallowe'en pranksters who tampered with the town's new water stand pipe or tower, and allowed 25,000 agllons of water to be wasted.

Mrs. M. V. Johnson, of Columbus, reported to police that she had been struck in the eye by a large apple as she was standing on the porch of her home. She said Hallowe'en merry-makers had thrown it. The eye was badly bruised.

Meanwhile, most of the large cities were completing plans for public street celebrations.

Marion is to dedicate its new "white-way" lighting system and the opening of the newly-paved Center tSreet. Three bands are to provide music.

Police of Columbus will block off the block between Third and High Streets on Broad Street, which is in the very heart of the capital city. The American Legion thirty-piece band will provide music for dancing.

West Jefferson, about seventeen miles west of Columbus, expects to pass a quiet Hallowe'en. The mayor there has ordered a curfew, and all children under 16 years of age must be off the streets by 8 p. m.

May Punish Senator Bingham For Using Paid Lobbyist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The congressional lobby inquiry shared the senate's interest today with the prospect of the Democratic-Insurgent coalition demanding official censure for Senator Hiram Bingham (R) of Conn., because he employed a paid lobbyist during the writing of the tariff bill.

The move to punish Bingham, because he employed Charles L. Eyanson, Connecticut manufacturers agent, rested in the hands of Senator George W. Norris (R) of Nebr., insurgent leader. Norris may sponsor a resolution of censure during the day although he indicated he would await the return of the dozen senators attending the Burton funeral. The Nebraskan however may defend his selection of the lobby committee, which Bingham charged was "framed" against him.

The question of censuring Bingham will command immediate consideration whenever Norris lays it before the senate. It will be of the highest privilege, since it deals directly with the ethics and official conduct of a senator.

Talk reverberated through the senate chamber meanwhile over the statements of Joseph R. Grundy, Pennsylvania political leader and grand-daddy of all lobbyists, on the nomination of Warren G. Harding at Chicago in 1920. His declaration that the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge initiated the final maneuver that made Harding a compromise nominee released a wave of discussion.

Some of the senate's oldest Republican leaders, who were very active at the 1920 convention, declared the late Boies Penrose (R) of Penn., really ruled the convention. They contended Penrose had determined on Harding long before the convention and had even introduced him around the capitol as "our next president" months before the convention and that his representatives in Chicago merely carried out his wishes.

These Republican veterans said Grundy and the late John T. King, then Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, were merely Penrose's personal lieutenants and that every man in the final conference "looked to Penrose for political guidance on national affairs." Grundy listed these conferees as Senator Watson, the late Senators Brandegee and McCormick, former Senators Wadsworth and Calder, Senator Smoot, Senator Lodge, George Harvey and himself.

Democratic chieftains however ignored this story but rejoiced over Grundy's testimony about "backward states" in the West and his intimation that high protectionists should be empowered to write all tariff bills. He condoned the employment of Eyanson by Bingham and said Eyanson's success in getting high rates for Connecticut products was of great value to industry.

BRITISH REDISCOUNT RATE IS REDUCED; BROKERS ARE HAPPY

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Bank of England today reduced the British rediscount rate to six per cent.

The reduction in the bank rate from six and one-half per cent was not entirely unexpected in view of the influx of gold to the Bank of England and the large decrease in the withdrawals of gold by France and Germany.

Nevertheless it caused high optimism among traders on the British markets who foresaw promise of easier money a bolstering effect on the prices of stock securities.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Reduction of the Bank of England rate was considered the most bullish news in many weeks in the financial section today.

Brokers, snatching a few extra hours of sleep afforded by the late opening of the exchange, were called by their offices and received the news of the reduction gladly.

In the opinion of observers, reduction of the federal reserve rediscount rate when the board meets today is probable.

STREET NOISES TO BECOME EVIDENCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A truck, equipped with sensitive apparatus for recording the intensity of sound, will soon begin wending its way through New York's streets, gathering evidence for the newly-created Noise Abatement Society's war on the city's unnecessary noise, it was announced today.

Another method by which the commission hopes to reduce New York's tumult of sound will be publication of a questionairre asking citizens the chief sources of bothersome sounds and time of day at which they occur.

BUYING ORDERS NOW BOLSTER MARKET AS CRASH SEEMS ENDED

Investors Not Buying On Margins; Many New Customers

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — "Buy!" That was the cry in Wall St. today. John O. Public is coming back into the stock market, and in a big way.

Long before the New York Stock Exchange opened for the day—at noon, two hours later than customary— great crowds of small investors, many of them new customers, swarmed into brokerage and investment houses in the financial district with cash in their pockets or checks in their wallets eager to "get in" on the buying side of the rising stock market.

At "60 Wall Street," Henry L. Doherty and Company, a prominent investment house, the corridors and waiting rooms were jammed with customers when the International News Service reporter pushed his way through. "I want to buy so many shares of such and such," men and women were saying to weary-eyed salesmen.

Nobody seemed to be selling. Everybody was buying, according to an official of the company. Confidence had supplanted fear and hysteria.

Eighty salesmen, worn to the point of exhaustion, were taking orders as fast as they came. They were "all in," having had practically no sleep all week.

At "39 Broadway," John Muir and Company, the same situation prevailed. As T. E. Kelly, manager of the auditing department expressed it:

"They're coming in with cash. They're not buying on margins. Instead of purchasing 100 shares on one-third margin as they did before the crash, they are buying twenty-five or thirty shares and paying cash.

Twenty employes were asleep on cots in the rear of the Muir and Company office. As one of the officials remarked, "It's like a six-day bicycle race, these market endurance tests. We're working in shifts, two hour shifts. Nobody has time for real sleep. Those two holidays tomorrow and Saturday will be a Godsend, even though we have to work."

At every office visited by this correspondent the over-worked employes were looking forward to the double holiday. The board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Exchange voted to open at noon today, instead of 10 a. m., and to close the exchanges all day Friday and Saturday to allow the staffs of member firms, many of whom have been on duty continuously for several days ,to obtain necessary rest.

All night long employes—clerks, accountants and stenographers—toiled over company books, trying to catch up on their work. There was a clatter to every office visited. Typewriter clattering, adding machines chugging and men with eye shades pouring over their ledgers. The offices were littered with ticker tape and discarded pieces of

ASHLAND, Ky., Oct. 31.—Charles Finney, of Lawrence County, Ohio, had his mind on other things while motoring through Ashland. He ignored a red light much to the chagrin of Patrolman William Miller.

Miller stopped Finley and started to reprimand him and turn him loose. As he ordered the Ohioan to drive on, he commanded him to stop in the same breath.

The officer saw a gallon jug in the tonneau of Finley's auto, and an investigation disclosed twenty-three other jugs, allegedly filled with "moonshine."

Finley was sentenced to thirty days in jail and he must pay a fine of $200. And, as the result of running through a red light.

CLUB WILL PROTEST EXCLUSION ORDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Liberal Club of New York University was to meet this afternoon to protest against the exclusion of Dave Myers, colored football star, from the line-up in the coming game with the University of Georgia.

The presidents of the student councils of the three colleges of the University, will also confer today with members of the faculty.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Anna Farr Carey, chairman of missionary work of the Wilmington Yearly Meeting, gave a helpful and instructive talk on "Friends Mission Work at Home and Abroad," at the regular meeting of the Missionary Society of the Friends Church, at the home of Mrs. Grover Crawford, S. Detroit St., Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Carey has spent twelve years in missionary work in Jamaica and three members of her immediate family have worked in Africa.

Mrs. Lucy Compton, chairman of Mission Work at the Miami Quarterly Meeting, was also present and gave a humorous demonstration of a missionary dialogue entitled, "Why the Missionary Society Failed."

There were fourteen members present and roll call was answered by each one giving a verse of praise. Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Albert Johnson.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Carey of near Highland, Mrs. Compton, New Burlington, Mrs. Naomi Hawkins, Mt. Sterling, Mrs. Cecil Crawford and Mrs. Harmon.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Anna Mendenhall and Mrs. Ida LeValley, in serving a delicious refreshment course.

ENTERTAINS GROUP AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The dining room, where a delicious luncheon was served, was elaborately decorated with Hallowe'en symbols. The guests came in masquerade costume and the guessing of their identity furnished a half hour of amusement. Miss Isabel Bowser was awarded a prize for the most artistic costume and Mr. Edward Cornwell was given a prize for the most comical costume.

Following the unmasking games and dancing were enjoyed and a gypsy fortune teller, who occupied an attractively decorated nook in the dining room, told the fortunes of all the guests.

ENTERTAINS WITH HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Master Warren Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Holland, Bellbrook Ave., entertained with a Hallowe'en party, Tuesday evening for the pleasure of a group of his friends.

The guests were masked and an evening of games was enjoyed. A light refreshment course was served at the close of the games.

ELKS ENTERTAIN AT FIRST DANCE OF SEASON

Approximately sixty couples attended the Hallowe'en Dance sponsored by Xenia Lodge No. 668 of Elks, at Elks' Hall, Wednesdy evening. The Cosmopolitan Band of Antioch furnished music for dancing. Light refreshments were served during the intermission period. Following intermission Mr. Germaine Ball, local pianist, played several selections. A grand march at which time favors were passed out, was a feature of the evening.

This is the first dance of the season and plans are being arranged for another dance during Thanksgiving week.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS ENJOY WIENER ROAST

About sixty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mangan, Jasper Pike, Monday evening and enjoyed a wiener roast.

Following the wiener roast games were played and a general social time was enjoyed.

Mr. Paul G. Fetz, N. King St. who underwent a serious operation on his left eye at a Cincinnati hospital two weeks ago, will be brought to his home here Friday as Mr. Fetz' condition is much improved.

Mrs. W. A. King and daughters, Amelia and Mary Margaret will leave Friday morning for Cincinnati where they will spend a few days with relatives.

Mrs. W. B. McCallister, N. King St., who suffered a broken right collar bone and a fractured rib in the result of an automobile accident in Dayton several days ago, is resting as well as could be expected. She is still at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood of Pine Mill Road, Dayton and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reynolds, Dayton, were guests Wednesday in this city with Mrs. Anna L. Haverstick, E. Market St.

Mr. Robert Ensign, Jamestown has been removed to his home Thursday morning from Espey Hospital where he underwent an operation two weeks ago for the removal of his appendix.

Mrs. C. L. Babb, Mrs. Sherwin Shroyer, Mrs. L. A. Washburn, Mrs. Grant Bell, Mrs John Ary, Mrs. Ralph Beatty, Mrs. J. J. Stout and Misses Wella Shipley and Emma Enright of Trinity M. E. church attended the Wednesday sessions at the sixtieth anniversary meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society at Memorial Hall, Columbus, this week. There are 5710 delegates registered for the convention. Mrs. Washburn and Mrs. Beatty have been attending the sessions all week.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew George, W. Main St., are announcing the birth of a daughter, Thursday morning. The baby has not been named.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Crawford have returned to this city from a honeymoon trip through the northern part of the state and Canada and have gone to housekeeping at 688 S. Detroit St.

Mr. H. E. Schmidt, N. King St., left Tuesday for Cleveland where he entered Dr. George W. Crile's Cleveland Clinic and will undergo medical treatment from Dr. William Lower.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cowan, Home Ave., will leave Thursday evening for Houston, Texas where they will visit Mrs. Cowan's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Upp. They expect to be away two or three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Logan, Greensburg, and Mr. James T. Martin, Indianapolis, Ind., are visiting the Rev. and Mrs. James P. Lytle, E. Church St. Mr. Logan is an uncle of Mrs. Lytle.

More than fifteen billion dollars worth of intangible property is escaping taxation in Ohio according to David C. Bradfute, chairman of the Greene County Tax League, who spoke at a New Jasper Twp. Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday evening.

The meeting was held at the home of A. D. Thomas, township chairman. Mr. Bradfute further stated that a surprising amount of this property which is not being returned for taxation because of the confiscatory rates under the uniform rule, is to be found in the county. This is indicated by the following figures: according to the most recent report of the Ohio Tax Commission this county is being taxed on $36,450,000 worth of real property; $7,880,065 worth of tangible property; and $11,557,385 of intangible property, making a total of $55,887,385.

Included in the tangible personal property are public utilities valued at $7,207,000 most of which should be included under real property as most of this is real estate. Included in the tangible personal property is $1,565,000 of moneys on deposit in banks in this county.

"It is of course impossible to arrive at any exact valuation of intangible in either this county or the state, but money on deposit, mortgages, and building and loan assets can be either exactly obtained or very closely estimated from state reports," the speaker said. "State banks in this county have a total of $1,550,000 on deposit, and national banks have $2,920,000 on deposit. A total of these two may well be contrasted with the amount of money returned for deposit as shown above. In the case of state banks public moneys have been deducted but this is not separately listed in the national bank deposits. However, 7 per cent of the deposits in the state banks are public moneys so the same ratio may be used with national banks.

"There is no way of arriving at the exact total of mortgages in effect in this county, however, economists generally agree on a rule which says that the average mortgage runs conservatively for three years. As a result a reliable estimate can be obtained by multiplying the mortgages filed in any one year by three. On this basis this county has mortgages valued at $5,786,058.

"Building and loan assets for this county amount to $5,408,502. This includes the real estate and tangible personal property of the building and loan companies, but as that amounts to only about 2 per cent it is not a very big item.

Contrasting the sum of these three types of intangibles with the total intangible property taxed in this county it will be seen that a great amount is escaping. This is doubly so when one considers that intangible personal property also includes credits, inventories, stocks and bonds, annuities and bank stocks for which no figures can be obtained. If these figures could be secured the contrast would be even greater. The average tax rate for this county is $18.14 per thousand dollars worth of valuation.

"Figures for the state are: Real property $9,361,388,000; tangible personal property $3,104,642,091; public utilities $1,568,600,000; intangible personal $1,029,707,279; moneys on deposit or subject to draft (tax report, 1927) $286,843,840.

"Compare the figure $1,029,707,279, the amount of intangible wealth listed for taxation, with the totals shown above of the various kinds of intangible property actually in existence in Ohio; moneys on deposit in state banks $1,652,909,000. Money on deposit in national banks $689,825,000; mortgages, $3,795,591,966; building and loan assets $1,035,429,316. These forms of intangible wealth alone total $7,173,755,282."

HEAVY CHRISTMAS BUSINESS COMING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Despite the stock market smash, the United States should enjoy a heavy Christmas business, treasury officials said today on the basis of reports received from various federal reserve districts.

Naturally the heavy losses incurred by investors will have some effect on buying. Nevertheless, it appeared likely that the retailers of the country would have sales at least nearly as great as the tremendous business in the holiday seasons of 1927 and 1928.

It was pointed out that there was an unusually large Christmas trade two years ago despite the fact that there was a general industrial recession in the last three months of 1927.

THE FINAL ACT

Judge, Central Figure In Texas Tragedy, Tried For Killing Son-In-Law

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 31.—The last act in a tragedy that shook the entire state of Texas is being written as R. H. Hamilton, Amarillo attorney and former appeals commission judge of the supreme court of Texas, is tried at Weatherford, for the slaying of his youthful son-in-law, Tom Walton, last May.

The tragedy was out of the ordinary. Behind it was the romance of a youth of 21, and his now widowed bride of 19, which had its beginning on the campus of the University of Texas. Walton and Theresa Hamilton, second daughter of the attorney, were students at the university in the fall and winter of 1928-29.

Grief-Stricken Mother

Besides the interest attached to the bride, widowed at the hands of her father before she had had an opportunity to live with her husband as a wife, there is the mother of the boy, Mrs. Grace Walton. She collapsed when she learned of her son's death and was dangerously ill for months.

It was under Mrs. Walton's persuasion that Walton went to Hamilton's office to disclose his secret marriage to Theresa, there to be greeted by bullets from a six-shooter in the hands of an irate father-in-law.

Still dressed in mourning black she appears at the Weatherford trial. The jurors probably will have a chance to hear her story, if she is physically able to take the witness stand, as the prosecution hopes.

Interest Runs High

The popularity of the young people on the university campus and in Amarillo; their romance on the campus, and the difference in their social rating and wealth; the prominence of Hamilton as an attorney and in the state's politics; the condition of the heartbroken mother, who blames herself for sending her son to his death; Hamilton's first statement that "I killed Walton to protect my home," and his later statement that he killed him in self-defense, have attracted widespread attention, and all Texas is centering its interest on the courtroom next week.

District Attorney Edward W. Thomerson, for the state, will contend that Hamilton killed Walton because he objected to him as a son-in-law, and with the knowledge at the time of the slaying that he was shooting his daughter's husband. The defense will seek to show that Hamilton had not learned of the marriage, but that he had received threats from the boy indirectly which led him to buy a gun and protect himself.

BUCKLEY WILL NOT BEGIN TERM FRIDAY

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31.—Bert B. Buckley, 55, ex-state treasurer, who is under sentence to serve two and one-half years in the Atlanta Penitentiary because of his conviction of attempted bribery and liquor conspiracy charges, will not begin serving his term tomorrow, as previously announced, it appeared here today.

Though United States Marshal Stanley Borthwick says he has received a letter from the former state official saying he would surrender himself this afternoon, Buckley's committment may be held up because of a legal technicality.

A special mandate must be issued by the circuit court of appeals ordering such a step, it was stated. The circuit court does not issue the mandate until the prisoner's time for an appeal has expired, unless requested to do so by the prisoner himself.

Buckley has made no special request. His time expires on November 9, and in view of the absence of the request, it is believed Buckley will not be sent to the southern penitentiary until November 19.

PROPOSES PROBE OF SPECULATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.— A congressional investigation of stock exchange speculation throughout the country was proposed in a resolution presented in the senate today by Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota.

He proposed appointment of a committee of five with broad authority to summon witnesses and secure record of exchanges.

Nye declared that the investigation was a forerunner to necessary congressional legislation to regulate purely speculative operations on stock exchanges.

TEN AGENCIES TO PARTICIPATE IN COMMUNITY CHEST THIS YEAR

Ten welfare agencies of Xenia, as compared wiht eight last year, are expected to derive financial support from the second annual Community Chest Fund drive to be conducted in Xenia November 19 to 26, inclusive, it is announced.

Participating organizations this year will include the Social Service League, Red Cross, Federated Parent-Teacher Association, East High and Lincoln P.-T. A., Boy Scouts, East Side Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Xenia Recreation Association, Xenia Garden Club and Greene County Health League.

The only addition to the list of participating agencies is the Girl Scouts. The East-Lincoln P.-T. A. and East Side Boy Scouts, which were supported jointly last year, are filing separate budgets this year.

All of the organizations expecting to receive funds from the chest will submit their 1930 budgets to the chest budget committee and the aggregate total of the budgets allowed will constitute the major part of the goal to be fixed for the coming campaign.

Announcement is made that the personnel of the chest budget committee will remain the same this year. This committee is composed of Postmaster C. S. Frazer, chairman; Miss Sarah Hagar, R. D. Adair, J. C. Marshall, Foster Clemmer, M. L. Wolf and H. S. LeSourd.

The committee is expected to meet soon to consider the budgets and fix a quota for the chest drive.

OLD SENTENCE IS ORDERED IN FORCE

Enforcement of a sentence of thirty days in the County Jail, which had been suspended by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy last April 4 on the condition that Nathan Mahaffey, 25, near Cedarville, paid a fine of $25 and costs, was ordered by the court Wednesday. Sheriff Ohmer Tate was given authority for holding Mahaffey in jail.

Mahaffey after being fined and given a thirty-day jail sentence on a theft charge, was discharged from custody on the condition that he paid the assessment. He was re-arrested October 11 because of alleged failure to pay the fine and costs.

SINGS OPERA LEAD

MISS DAVIDSON

TAKING the part of "Rose," adopted daughter of "Pilot Farley," Miss Sara Davidson, senior, will portray the leading feminine character in the opera, "In Old Louisiana," to be presented by the combined Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs of Xenia Central High School at 8 o'clock Friday night in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium. The most important male part is that of "Richard St. John," a young sugar planter, taken by John Collins, who plays opposite Miss Davidson. Seats for the performance may be reserved at Sohn's drug store.

W. R. C. DISTRICT CONVENTION BRINGS 125 MEMBERS TO XENIA

One hundred and twenty-five delegates attended the opening session of the sixth district convention of the Woman's Relief Corps at I. O. O. F. Hall, S. Detroit St., this city, Thursday.

City Manager S. O. Hale, gave the welcoming address which was followed by the address from the Xenia corps president, Mrs. Anna Poland. Mrs. Carrie Bennett, of Springfield, state senior vice president, responded.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock with Mrs. Edith Norckauer, Xenia district president, presiding. Several state officers and past officers were in attendance and eight members of the Springfield Post, G. A. R., were present.

Reports of all corps represented were given followed by a short talk by Mrs. C. V. Burton, of the O. S. and S. O. Home. Mrs. Burton, who was accompanied by six or eight students of the Home, told of the progress of the institution and of various things which it is hoped to accomplish there.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hadley, Wilmington, was in charge of the memorial services which followed. A short talk was given by Mrs. Alma Leppleman, Toledo, state council.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Anna Allen, Dayton, Ky., conducted the annual inspection. Election of officers and selection of a place of the meeting next year were scheduled for the afternoon session.

Luncheon was served by members of the Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., at 12:30 o'clock.

UNABLE TO LEARN AIR CRASH CAUSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Investigators of the department of commerce have been unable to definitely determine the cause of the crash of the T. A. T. transport plane "City of San Francisco" in New Mexico September 30, with a loss of eight lives, Secretary Lamont reported to the senate today.

Informing the senate of another fatal crash at Millington, Tenn., in response to a senate resolution, he said Frank Hays, an unlicensed pilot killed two passengers when he attempted to stunt too close to the ground.

GIRLS' CLOAK ROOM ROBBED AT DANCE

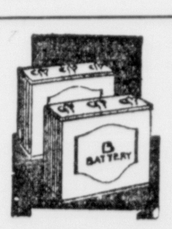

While about sixty couples were engaged in merry-making at the Hallowe'en dance sponsored by Xenia Lodge, No. 668, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Wednesday night at the Elks' Hall, a thief invaded the girls' rest room and stole about $7.50 in cash and a pair of gloves. Loss of money and other articles from purses was reported by three girls.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD—And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.—Luke 6:12.

SHYLOCK AGAIN

A report that Washington was seeking a separate reparations agreement with Germany was all that was needed to revive the "Uncle Shylock" canard in the French press. The report was received in Paris as an indication of the loss of American confidence in the Young plan and of the determination of the government in Washington to safeguard its claim to a fraction of what Germany is under obligation to pay. "Shylock's grasping fingers lose nothing," says the Depeche Coloniale.

As a matter of fact, we lost fifty per cent of what France owed us on account of the war and a larger percentage of what Italy owed us. We are not at all sure that we shall be able to collect even the moieties of their debts which they have funded. As far as German reparations are concerned, we fixed in the beginning a figure easily justified by consideration of justice and fairness; and consequently there is no reason why we should reduce or waive our claims, whatever reasons there may be for Germany's other creditors to modify their demands.

After the ululations caused in France by Snowden's triumph at The Hague, where the other allies were caught in the act of trying to gouge Great Britain, Americans will be more amused than irritated by the revival of the Shylock simile. Were the press of this country to assail France's attitude towards debts and reparations, as the French press persistently assails ours, what consternation it would sow in the timid breasts of American internationalists, whose recipe for maintaining cordial relations between other countries and their own is for the latter to take everything lying down.

A LAUDED LOBBY

Speaker Longworth, who represnets an Ohio district in congress, was so elated over the successful completion of the Ohio river canalization project that he made this interesting contribution to the discussion of lobbies:

"It was about this time that an influence outside of congress was beginning to be felt. A group of men, not many in number, but representatives of a vast population and vast public interests, was beginning to receive sympathetic hearing in the committees of congress. They called themselves the Ohio Valley Improvement association. It was a lobby, if you please; but the sort—and there are relatively few of them—that we welcome in Washington. It was a lobby armed with special knowledge of facts, circumstances and conditions imparted not for the enhancement of their personal and financial interests, but to enable congress to act more intelligently upon a project which would ultimately be for the benefit not only of Ohio but of the whole United States."

Without disparaging the disniterestedness of these gentlemen or minimizing their achievement, we are reminded by Speaker Longworth of a famous divine's definition of orthodoxy and hterodoxy. "Orthodoxy," said he, "is my doxy; heterodoxy is any other doxy." Whether a lobby is laudable or to be condemned and booted out of doors perhaps as frequently depends on whether its ends benefit the critic, as on the means it takes to obtain them.

It was Emerson who said every man is a lover of truth. It may have been the cast in Emerson's set, but we never did take much in transcendentalism.

The Bureau of Education reports that adult education in this country showed a 30 percent increase over the year before, and now it's up to some other bureau to answer the question. What do you mean, education?

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Wills Benge, who has worn out 23 dress suits enacting the role of stage butler, is donning his 24th to enact his specialty in "This Thing Called Love," a new Pathe noisy.

As "Jarvis," "Meadows," and "Perkins" Wils has appeared in scores of plays and there's no way of estimating how many million feet of film he has butled through.

IN THE OZARKS

Charlie Finger, who came to New York a few days ago to get the Longmans, Green award for writing "Courageous Companions," says that not all censorship is located in New York City—his part of the world, The Ozarks, also suffers from density of a kind.

"A little school teacher in my neck of the woods was doing a good job," he said, "until one day I noticed she had disappeared. I inquired of one of the school trustees and learned that she had been removed for having some bad books in her possession.

"'What were they?' I asked. He became very earnest and requested me to follow him to his house, which I did. He went to his bed and lifted up the mattress. 'Here they are,' he said, and I beheld some copies of the National Geographic magazine, containing articles, with pictures, about the South Sea Islanders."

UNIMPORTANT BIOGRAPHIES

Rouben Mamoulian, who staged the Theatre Guild's production of "Porgy," "Marco Millions," "Wings Over Europe," and recently, Helen Morgan's noisy, "Applause," came to the land of the more-or-less free and the home of the-undoubtedly brave at the age of 25. Today he is thirty and to make it more complicated, his middle name is Zachary.

Not that it makes any particular difference, but Zachary has 17 suits, all blue serge. He never had a hat that fit him. The pipe he has smoked for 17 years is cursed with a defective flue and he hates cheese and telephones.

AIR SAFETY

While there are many items of airplane accidents in the papers there is but a small percentage of accidents in regularly scheduled air service. Those who wish to fly will cut accidents to a minimum if they will insist on flying only in licensed passenger planes with experienced pilots. Look for NC or C, with a number after the letter. enter your interest on scheduled routes and stick to licensed pilots and you will be in little, if any more, danger than traveling on the earth.

DRIVING

Most states have a definite speed limit for automobiles. Some set maximum speed at 35, some 40 and some 45 miles per hour. A few states, more wisely managed, do not fix a definite limit but have a sound and sensible law which demands safe, sane and courteous driving and gives officers the power to make arrests when rules are not complied with, no matter what the speed. Fixing speed limits is not the best approach to bad driving. What drivers most need to learn is caution and care. They are frequently as reckless as faster drivers. A law with teeth in it which does not fix a definite limit, will get best results.

SELLING YOURSELF TO THE BOSS

Some men spend as much time trying to sell themselves to the boss a they do at their real job. The only way to do a thorough job of selling yourself to your employer is to do your work so well you make him dependent on you. Not that you will ever be indispensable. Nobody is. But you can get him to the point where he will hate to think about getting along without you. You will never get into that position by wisecracks or by consciously trying to make a good impression.

REMEMBRANCE AGAIN

Speaking of remembrance, Armistice Day is near. There will be parades, programs, balls and other kinds of celebration. The big idea of remembering the anniversary of the armistice is to remember the sacrifice of young men, the high cost of honorable service, the grief and paint and loss for a cause that seemed worth while. Armistice Day should not be the occasion for glorifying war, for creating propaganda for armies and navies. It is a day for gratitude and the remembrance of heroes.

Above all, Armistice Day is a time for determining once again that tolerance and idealism and the spirit of service of the war period shall not have been marshalled in vain. If men died, we must not let it be said they died for nothing.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR STATE UNIVERSITIES SOUGHT

By O. MAX GARDNER
Governor of North Carolina

(Oliver Max Gardner was born at Shelby, N. C., March 22, 1882. He attended the State College of Agriculture and Engineering and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He began practicing law at Shelby in 1906. In 1911 he was elected to the state senate, serving until 1915. From 1916 to 1921 he was lieutenant governor of North Carolina. He was elected governor in 1928. He is a Democrat and a veteran of the Spanish-American war.)

A problem of growing concern to all the south is that of providing adequate financial support for our state institutions of higher learning.

The story of higher public education in the south is soo long to be recited here. It involves, in the early years, an ideal of the common-wealth's duty to its citizens wholly different from our own. By 1860, for example, the University of North Carolina counted a student body of 600, representing 35 states and had produced, besides a president and vice president of the United States, thirteen governors of other states and a score of cabinet officers and foreign ministers. It is a story touched deeply by the tragedy of the Civil war and the black despair of its aftermath. And it is, finally, a story of struggle against obstacles of poverty, ignorance, and official indifference to the higher cultural needs of the people.

After the dawn of the new century, this process of recovery and rehabilitation was greatly accelerated. With the rise of the mills and the rebirth of southern industry came a new impetus in public education in all of its levels. And the very essence and spirit of this cultural and spiritual renaissance was the democracy, relentless as it was youthful, of the new south.

A living, progressive civilization is always, as to some of its aspects, in the pioneering stage. It is ever confronted by new frontiers of opportunity and achievement.

In my judgment, we here in the south are today confronted by one of these frontiers. It is essentially spiritual in its nature, consists in a new approach to and appraisal of cultural values, and lies between those parallels which separate mediocrity from excellence. We have, in our words, achieved a mediocre respectability in higher education here in the south. Public support of our state colleges and universities, plus a few notable benefactions and the aid of some of the educational foundations have brought us thus far, but we stand today with only the slenderest margin between the operation of these institutions and the bread and butter line.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

It is far more interesting to take one's exercise through rhythmic dancing than through set exercises, for one can then develop grace as well as strength. It is also much more beneficial to feminine bodies, which are so much more delicate than the masculine physiques. The complex Swedish exercises are much too heavy for women.

The rhythmic school of dancing was founded many years ago and must appeal to the imagination of a great many women and children, for it has flourished amazingly and developed innumerable disciples who go about the country spreading the teachings of their first leader.

Dancing is taught through word pictures, after some few simple exercises have been mastered. The pupil imagines that she is a dainty craft sailing the sea, and with an airy, silken scarf tied to her waist, she swings and sways to soft music very much as the sail does in the light summer zephyrs. Often the teacher will ask her pupils to listen to a bit of music and then tell them to dance and to interpret what the music means to them. This is when they are more advanced and are ready for improvisation.

It is very difficult for the average woman to bring a pianist into her own home, the while she learns to transform the music into the dance. But the fundamental calisthenics are worthy of some consideration, as they can be done in one's own boudoir.

One very good one is done in the following manner: Dressed in a bathing suit, or some scanty costume, pressing the palms of your hands down on the floor, you raise your body with only the tips of your toes and the palms of your hands for support. You will find that two or three of these will exhaust you at first. Then turn on your back, relax for a moment. When you feel rested, raise your legs and circle, imitating the movements of bicycling. Ten movements such as these are supposed to have the same effect on your muscles as your initial attempt to ride horseback.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The trouble with President Hoover's National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement is its secretiveness. It is too mysterious to be popular. Highbrow and stuck up! —some critics call it.

On investigation, I believe this to be an undeserved reputation.

The commission simply is misunderstood, it seems to me. It is not the kind of commission people expected. Whether it is the right or the wrong kind is a question which was not left to the commission itself to determine.

I cannot attribute my information to any particular individual, because, as I have said, the commission is darn mysterious. Its members all are pledged to anonymity except Chairman George W. Wickersham.

As for Chairman Wickersham, he spoke out loud just once, to Governor Roosevelt of New York, and has been regretting it ever since.

He puts his finger on his lips if you ask him about the weather.

Nevertheless, its first-hand information—guaranteed to be the commission's honest-to-goodness self analysis, straight from headquarters.

If, then, the N. C. on L. O. and E. knows its own fix, this is it:

"We are trying to start a real science of criminology. We begin with hardly any facts to go on. Having dug up a few, maybe we arrive at certain definite conclusions from them.

"Suppose we publish these conclusions; what then?

"Why, having dug up a few additional facts, perhaps we find our previous conclusions completely upset by them, and have to reverse ourselves.

"This is bound to happen time and again. At about the 'steenth repetition of it, the entire public gives us the ha ha. We never can get another one of our conclusions accepted seriously.

"We are mysterious because we have not yet formulated any conclusions whatever that we feel fairly sure of—as sure as doctors or astronomers or any other class of scientists feel concerning their conclusions. When we do, take it from us, we shall broadcast the tidings."

Is it fair to inquire?—

How happens it that the N. C. on L. O. and E. is attempting to of crime?

spread itself over so broad a field?

The N. C. on L. O. and E. is operating on a $250,000 appropriation provided by congress on the strength of a resolution introduced by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who states that he meant it all (and he ought to know what he meant by his own resolution) to be spent investigating prohibition.

Yet here is the N. C. on L. O. and E. investigating crime in general.

How come?

To which the N. C. on L. O. and E. answers promptly:

"All we know is that President Hoover appointed us; not Senator Glass of Virginia. The president said, 'Less crime!'—in general.

"Who cares what Senator Glass meant!"

Okay!—but creating a new science sounds like a large order.

"Oh, all we aim to do," explains the N. C. on L. O. and E., "is to drive a mere peg to hang the science on.

"Hanging it there will be a job of generations."

Another problem presents itself. As the N. C. on L. O. and E. (or some future N. C. on L. O. and E.) proceeds with its task, may it not hit upon the discovery?

That certain crimes are caused by certain conditions.

As, for instance—

How could there be thefts?—without private property.

Supposing such a discovery, will it be the commission's duty to recast society and economics, so as to end crime by eliminating the reasons for it?

"We propose to view crime from today's standpoint," rejoins the N. C. on L. O. and E. "We cannot speak for the future—after a possible revolution or two."

Query:

With the exception of Frank L. Loesch, who may have had some practical experience, as vice president of Chicago's crime commission, how can these eleven bookworms possibly have the least comprehension of the lawbreaking psychology?

"We have our experts," counters the N. C. on L. O. and E., triumphantly. "A doctor does not have to be a germ to understand him, under a microscope."

Ah, but they forget that some of the meanest germs remain undiscovered.

The N. C. on L. O. and E. has divided its field of study into eleven major subjects, with a subcommittee to specialize on each of them. Maybe it is a mere coincidence that there are exactly enough subjects to allow a subchairmanship apiece to all the members of the commission.

The odd circumstance is that crimes, with one exception, are bunched, hodge-podge, together.

Causes in general!—courts in general!—police in general!—murder, burglary, arson, all under a single classification—but prohibition has an exclusive committee, with Boss Wickersham at the head of it.

"Why so much emphasis," I asked, "on prohibition?"

"No especial reason," answered the N. C. on L. O. and E., "further than that it seems to be a pretty important subject."

If one does not feel up to serving waffles for breakfast, there are always simple pancakes that may take their place and do not take such an effort for the average housewife to make. This menu will serve five.

Today's Recipes

Creamed Spinach—Heat the cooked spinach and chop fine. There should be two cups of it. Make a white sauce, using one cup of liquid (part milk and part spinach liquid) and three tablespoons of butter, one of flour. Add the white sauce to the spinach, add two tablespoons butter, a dish of nutmeg and one teaspoon lemon juice. Beat two eggs well and mix with the spinach. Put in a mold. Set the mold in hot water in a pan in the oven and poach for one hour.

Prune Cake—One cup brown sugar, one egg and one yolk, three tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon cloves, three-fourths cup sour milk, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one cup prunes, cooked and mashed, one and one-half teaspoons soda, one and one-half cups flour. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes Filling—One egg white, beaten, two cups powdered sugar, one-half cup prunes, cooked and mashed, one tablespoon milk, one tablespoon butter.

Swimming and Swimming Pools

X wants to know:

1. How about swimming as an exercise? I love it, and in the winter I go to a swimming pool. Alright?"

Ans. Swimming alright? Yes, indeed, X, it is one of the best forms of exercise, bringing into play nearly every muscle of the body! And it is the only active exercise that can be taken in hot weather without discomfort or danger. Every child should be taught to swim, and the earlier, the better, both for the value of the exercise and for the life-saving possibilities. Yes, when it is impossible to swim in the natural waters, tank swimming is a fair substitute, if the pool is kept in a sanitary condition. By this is meant that the swimming suits and towels are disinfected before use, the proper precautions about the personal hygiene of the swimmers are observed, and some method of disinfecting the water is used.

2. "Should a hot, medium or cold shower be taken before entering the tank?"

Ans. A medium or hot shower, with plenty of soap, should be required of each swimmer before entering the pool, for the pool is really a common bathing tub. Furthermore, the officials should see that no one who has a skin disease, or running ears or eyes or other open sources of infection, is allowed into the pool. Diseases (especially inflammation of the eyes and ears, intestinal infection, skin diseases, etc.) can be, and not infrequently are, contracted in swimming pools where such precautions are not taken.

3. "How long do you consider it wise to stay in the water? Personally I can stay in a very short time, and when I asked my doc- my doctor about this, he just told me to get some fat on my bones; but that really wasn't sympatheti advice!"

Ans. The length of the stay i the water depends upon your re action, X. Some can apparenti stay in indefinitely without any i effects. Your doctor's advice ma not seem sympathetic, but there' truth in it, for those who are in sufficiently padded lose body hea very rapidly and so get cold quick ly.

4. "When coming out, I take long, very hot shower and then a cold a one as I can get, but do no know if this is alright."

Ans. Yes, the hot shower on com ing out of the pool, followed b cold, is good for you, especially i you are chilly. Otherwise no necessary.

5. "My eyes become irritated aft er using the pool. What is th cause of this?"

Ans. The water in most swim ming pools is disinfected by chlor ide of lime, an exceedingly poten and safe chemical. (It is also use to purify drinking water.) Some times the engineer is a little to lavish with his remedy; then may irritate the mucous membran of the eyes and throat for a s time. Call the attention of authorities to this for it is n necessary. (Three grains of th chloride of lime—less than one ninth teaspoonful—will kill of myriads of bacteria in a barrel o water! For the purification o drinking water, from 5 to 1 pounds is used for one million gal lons!)

Miss E. — It is true that mump in young adult males (not in bo children) may infect the genera tive system, and it does, in fron 15 to 25 per cent of the case Whether the patient becomes ster ile depends on the degree and th extension of the infection.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

I smile and sigh when I read the ardent letters of my young correspondents of 16 and 17 with their confidences of love affairs. They are so sure that THEIRS is no puppy love, but the genuine article which will last through life, and that they cannot possibly wait until what their elders call "a suitable age" to marry.

In such cases their parents seem like hard-hearted tyrants trying to separate two fond young hearts.

They are scandalized if you suggest that this love that consumes them is a physical attraction rather than a more spiritual emotion. But marriage soon decides that for them, and then they are SO unhappy. They were too young and some one should have prevented them from marrying, they wail.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I know the question I am about to ask has been asked and answered over and over again, but, of course, everyone thinks their case is different.

"I am a young married woman of 20. I've been married two years, but, Virginia Lee, I realized that my husband and I were not suited soon after we were married. He is very disagreeable, doesn't like to take me out, and he leaves me at night without letting me know where he is going, and expects me to stay at home waiting for him.

"I've met a man in the last three months that I know I would be happy with. He wants me to leave with him. I have no children. Should I leave?

"KITTY."

Two years ago, Kitty, you thought you could be perfectly happy with the man who is now your husband, didn't you? And no one could tell you that you were not congenial and that your love would not last. How can you tell that this love you think you have for this other man will last? Maybe he will be no more satisfactory as a husband than the man you are now married to.

And, besides, didn't you promise when you were married that you would cherish your husband through sickness and health, and, leaving all others, cleave only unto him? Is this your idea of keeping that promise? Or did you only promise because it was part of the ceremony you had to go through with, and without meaning it at all?

I think that you should make every effort to make your marriage successful. Failing that you should divorce him, if you have any ground and then, after thinking things ove carefully, think about a second mar riage.

If you just leave with this ma you say you love, your reputatio will be ruined and your husban can get the divorce.

DOLLY DIMPLES: Keep rig on teasing mother to let you the party with the others until sh weakens. That usually works. I she doesn't, you'll have to be pa tient until she thinks you are ol enough to go out.

LONELY WILLOW: I think yo would be very foolish to leave hom because your parents do not approv of the boy friend. If he is all yo think he is time will prove it. you leave I am sure you will deepl regret it. Yes, a girl has to be to be married without her parent consent. They could have it an nulled if she was not that age.

UNHAPPY BLUE EYES: If th man really loves you he will get legal separation from his wife an marry you, as he has not lived wit her for so long. If he cannot will not do that it would be as we for you to give him up, as he is n free.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have been going with a young man about tw years and now we seem to have drifted apart. I have known thi boy and played with him since childhood. I have grown to lov him dearly. The other evening went to a party and it hurt me t see the kind of girls he was with as they are not very respectable.

"He still treats me as a goo friend, and once in a while ask for a date, and when I am with him he tells me he cares for me only, but I can't quite believe this as he had a date first w hen w were going 'steady.'

"Virginia Lee, please tell me how I could get him to come without running after him. Life is empty without him.

"BROKEN HEARTED SUE."

Sorry, dear, but I'm afraid yo can't. He has probably tired of yo and must have his fling, and yo will do youself no good by tryin to win him back. Hide your hu dear, until he is ready to sett down, and he may want to com back to you—if you still want hi

MRS. ROSE BEETLE IS RESCUED

While the lookers-on held their breath, Stagg worked, and at last he gave a glad cry.

"Hurrah! I see Mrs. Rose. Courage, my dear lady. I'll have you out now in no time!" A faint whisper came from the depth of the hole Stagg was digging:

At the sound of his dear wife's voice, Mr. Rose gave a whoop of joy.

"Never mind the eggs, beloved. If you are alive and well you can lay some more. Are you all right?"

"All right, husband dear, but nearly smothered. I shall be glad to feel the sun again and look upon your face. That you, Stagg? I thought I recognized your feelers. Where are you, husband?"

"Here!" cried Rose. "And there you are! Hurry now, and pull yourself out by my claw before an more bark tumbles in on you Rose Beetle bent over and pulled with all his might, and out of th hole popped another beetle as li him as are two peas in a pod.

"Allow me," said Grass-Gree stretching out his claw, and t two beetles hauled Mrs. Rose Beet over the top. Exhausted, she sa to the ground.

"What made you go near th rotten tree trunk, wife?" deman ed Mr. Rose Beetle. "I told you was liable to cave in any mome I thought youd decided to lay yo eggs in that ant hill across th way."

"I decided the ant hill was t crowded!" sighed Mrs. Rose Beet "I thought it would be qui our babies under the tree root."

"So it will!" agreed Rose Bee "And as I have you back safe a sound, you and I have nothing worry about!"

Going through the 1929 football season, contending for the Big Ten title, while being under technical suspension by the Western Conference on charges growing out of an alleged looseness in its athletic standards, is the unusual situation being faced by Iowa this fall.

Off-hand no parallel can be recalled for this test, the important factors, so far as the Hawkeyes are concerned, being restraint and self-control in the heat of gridiron conflict.

The job of making a thorough house-cleaning has been under way at Iowa in order to pave the way for a clean bill of reinstatement, also the development of another football team that while not extraordinary, is good.

Iowa has already lost one Big Ten game and tied another, otherwise it would have been an ironic touch for the Hawkeyes under Burt Ingwersen, whose scalp also has been sought by the grandstanders, to dispute the conference championship with any one of the rivals that have threatened Iowa's disbarment.

In taking some of the great producers of sport from the scenes of action the year 1929 has been a costly one. Tex Rickard is lost to boxing and racing lost two of its foremost trainers of thoroughbreds in Jimmy Rowe and Sam Hildreth. Besides Huggins, baseball mourns the passing of such stalwarts as George Stallings and John Conway Toole this year.

Now that Donie Bush has signed to take over Lena Blackburne's job, it is predicted by baseball men that the game's freshest busher, Art Shires, better known as "The Great Shires," will have to pick up a teammate as a sparring partner.

Regardless of the fact that Donie is not of the hard-boiled managerial school, he certainly will not tolerate fisticuffs from Shires or anyone else. It appears that Blackburne was a bit too game when it came to Shires. Discretion would have been the better part of valor for although as manager he won several debates with Arthur he dropped three decisions at fisticuffs and also lost prestige with the owners.

That Fred Slackford, who will be remembered by Xenians as secretary of the late lamented Chamber of Commerce here some years ago and a star football player with the Dayton Triangles, professional eleven, at the same time, was the best defensive fullback he has ever seen in action, is the statement of "Foos" Clark, Dayton, coach of the Imperials, Xenia independent football team. Clark is in a position to know whereof he speaks because he also played with the Triangles at the same time.

According to Clark, Slackford possessed an uncanny ability to diagnose plays in advance. "Slack" was usually to be found at the bottom of every heap of players at the end of each play. Slackford starred in football at Notre Dame under Rockne.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR IMPROVEMENT; READY NOVEMBER 15

Seats To Accommodate 450 Fans; Cost Will Be $1,600

Xenia Central High School Athletic Association has contracted for the construction of new bleachers for Cox Memorial Athletic Field at a cost estimated at $1,600, it was disclosed Thursday.

Contract for erecting the bleachers, which will be located on the west side of the football field with a seating capacity of nearly 450 people, has been awarded to W. O. Jeffries, local contractor, and construction work is already under way.

It is stipulated in the contract that weather being favorable for the work, the new stand is to be ready for use by November 15 for the annual gridiron classic between Xenia and Wilmington High Schools at Cox Field.

Looking forward into the future when the football gridiron may be entirely encircled by a cinder track, the athletic association announces that the bleachers will be located fifteen feet back from the fence surrounding the field.

The wooden stands will be seventy-two feet in length and will have a foundation of concrete set three feet below the ground level. In front the concrete base will rise to a height of three feet off the ground and the back row of seats will be sixteen feet off the level.

There will be ten rows of seats. An aisle extending along the entire front of the structure will be four feet in width while the entrance and exits will be at each end with another aisle running up the middle. Each seat will be twenty-four inches deep with a rise of thirteen inches between each tier. From the front row to the back row the distance will be twenty-four feet.

Heavy guard rails will surround the outer edges of the stand, supposed by strong posts. The construction will be of heavy timber with a two-inch flooring. In every respect the bleachers will be braced securely and the specifications have met with the approval of the state department of industrial relations. It will be given two coats of paint as proof against the weather.

Cost of the bleachers will be financed out of the fund of the school's athletic association and by annual class memorial gifts. The memorial fund of the 1928 graduating class is available and the present senior class has also expressed its interest in the project and its desire to help defray the expense.

The association is also looking forward to the continued support of the community in patronizing high school athletics, including football and basketball games, and the annual income from this source is also expected to aid in meeting the expense.

Announcement is also made that the small temporary bleachers, which have been in use at the field for several years and which are movable, will be shifted to the east side of the athletic field for use of visiting crowds at football games.

INSTITUTE WILL HEAR WOMAN JUDGE

Judge Florence Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, will address the evening session of the Greene County W. C. T. U. institute at Galloway Hall, Wilberforce, at 7 o'clock Friday night.

The afternoon meeting will be held at Arnett Hall and the guest speaker will be Mrs. J. J. Jenkins, of the prohibition educational unit. Mrs. Welch, local president, will preside at this session, at which those in attendance will also consider reports of the national convention held at Indianapolis, Ind., in June.

Music on both occasions will be furnished by university musical organizations under the direction of Prof. Saulsbury.

WILL START ARMORY HERE NEXT SPRING

Construction of Xenia's new $50,000 state armory in the Dodds Addition will probably not be started by the state until next spring when weather conditions are more favorable, in the opinion of Representative R. D. Williamson, who declared Thursday, however, that erection of the Xenia armory will be given preference over other armory projects, of which there are four, in the state.

MIAMI PROFESSOR FAVORS AMENDMENT

The proposed tax limit amendment to the constitution was championed by Dr. E. S. Todd, head of the department of economics, Miami University, who addressed a mass meeting of Greene County farmers at Charity Grange Hall, Dayton-Xenia Pike, Wednesday afternoon.

"The amendment has a three-fold aim: first, to remove from the constitution the so-called uniform rule for the taxation of general property; second, to enable the legislature to make suitable use of intangible property for taxation purposes; and third, to place in the constitution a provision that would limit the total tax rate on real estate to 1½ per cent," Dr. Todd told the assembled farmers. He also enumerated several reasons why he believed the uniform rule should be removed.

WILBERFORCE EXPECTS STIFF OPPOSITION FROM CLARK TEAM

Wilberforce University's football team, which meets Clark University, of Atlanta Ga., in the second home intersectional game of the season Saturday afternoon, is anticipating a hard contest.

The Force has recovered from the 6 to 0 defeat administered by Tuskegee Institute, of Tuskegee, Ala., at Soldier Field, Chicago, the first setback of the current season, last Saturday and gives the Southern school credit with producing an eleven that performed in brilliant fashion.

Fumbles at two critical moments by backfield men robbed Wilberforce of a possible victory, however.

The team is determined that it shall go through the remainder of the season undefeated but just at present the invasion of Clark University is uppermost in the minds of Coach Graves and his proteges.

Clark also has lost but one game this fall, a 21 to 0 setback in a game with Tuskegee, but last Saturday showed wonderful form in trimming the soldier's team representing Fort Bennett, Ga., 27 to 6. This was an exceptionally strong army infantry team.

Saturday's contest will start at 2 o'clock.

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—America has always been a land of romance. It was so in the days of Columbus. The same characteristic has marked all its history.

As a new country with great natural resources it is not remarkable that it has produced many great fortunes. But that is by no means its chief distinction. That men would rise from obscurity to wealth was to be expected and many have done so who were without much that could be termed greatness. It will be necessary, however to seek for some different explanation for those who with only a background of good sound blood have gained the heights of intellectual supremacy. The abundant products of the nation do not account for men of the type of Jonathan Edwards, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln or Daniel Webster. They came to us and are gone—a wonder and a mystery.

Need Such Books

Since we can never know too much of such figures, never spend too much time in their contemplation, we are always indebted to an author who can lay the career of any of them before us freshly and interestingly as Allan L. Benson has done in his recent life of Daniel Webster. He seems to know what is essential to the portrait of this great man and has the skill to present it through all the wondrous scenes of his life from the time he lay in the cradle on the northern frontier in New Hampshire until a multitude of ten thousand surrounded his bier at Marshfield. The story is well told. Those who read it will get a new record of an important period of our history and a faithful account of the acts and character of the greatest man of his time.

The general features of the life of Daniel Webster are fairly well known, the struggles of his youth, the hesitations of his early manhood, his school teaching period, his law studies at Boston, his first practice in New Hampshire ending in his election to Congress, his return to the Bar and his practice in Massachusetts, his election to the Senate, his service as secretary of state, his return to the senate and his final days as Secretary of State.

In these three fields his greatness developed step by step. He was a profound lawyer learned in his profession and a matchless advocate. He not only knew the law but knew how to apply it to the case in hand. As a tryer of cases he rose to the first place at the bar of the nation.

What has so seldom been done he did in becoming not only a great lawyer but a great senator. It was given him to comprehend legislation and understand public policies. His power of exposition when applied to political questions has never been surpassed.

His Varied Career

In the field of diplomacy he was likewise successful. His note to England settled the question of the search of our ships which a war had left undetermined so that it was never raised again, and his negotiation ended the boundary disputes that were seriously threatening to involve us in armed conflict.

Through all this varied career his chief power was his eloquence. He saw clearly and felt strongly. Yet his oratory was always of a practical nature. He painted no pictures merely to create beauty for its own sake but he illustrated his arguments with the wondrous gems of eloquence that he might the better convince his hearers. It was so in the Dartmouth College case, it was so in the Reply to Hayne. His love of country, his legal mind, his power of exposition inevitably made him the defender of the Constitution. Measured purely by the results of his arguments he ranks as the greatest orator of modern times. When he answered the proponents of nullification he saved the Union.

This life and works deserve far more study than they receive. Mr. Benson has brought into his book much material that I have not seen before in print. He has effectively answered many criticisms, correctly represented Mr. Webster as a great intellect, an able lawyer, a wise statesman, and left him also a human being entitled to our admiration, our sympathy, and our love.

CHARLES A. WEAVER CLOTHING STORE TO SUSPEND BUSINESS

C. A. WEAVER

Charles A. Weaver, proprietor of a clothing store at 13 E. Main St., for twenty-two of the twenty-five years a men's furnishing store has been operated at that location, revealed Thursday that the business will be discontinued. A closing out sale of the stock is now in progress.

The present lease of the store in the Schmidt Bldg. expires next year and Mr. Weaver announced that another location suitable for the business could not be found.

Mr. Weaver conducted a clothing store at its present location from 1903 to 1922. In the latter year he sold out to Oscar McDorman and C. H. Pumphrey. The present lease was originally assigned to McDorman and Pumphrey, former owners. Mr. Weaver bought back the store in January, 1928.

The entire three-story building, owned by H. E. Schmidt, was leased more than a year ago to Green Stores, Inc., Boston, Mass., for a period of ninety-nine years, renewable forever. This firm, which had operated a chain of 5, 10 and 25 cent stores in the vicinity of Boston, was recently consolidated with another nationally known organization, but the lease is not affected.

When all the rooms in the building are vacated by the present occupants sometime next year the structure is expected to be improved at a cost not less than $12,000 and the two store rooms on the ground floor, one occupied by the clothing store and the other vacant, will be thrown together for the chain store occupancy.

Pilot Saves Town

Citizens of Unionville, Mo., are loud in their praise of Robert W Radoll, airmail pilot who saved the town from destruction by fire. Flying the air mail from Kansas City to Chicago, Radoll saw flames shooting from a building and flew over the spot until the noise of his motor aroused the inhabitants.

More time to play

YOU can always find people to tell you that the country is going to the dogs because we're doing so much playing.

"When did your grandmother find any time to play? There was a woman for you!"

No doubt.

Just the same, we'd like to have given her a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine, electric lights, running hot water, a telephone, baker's bread, delicious canned foods, an automobile and a set of golf clubs.

Through advertising, science is giving us more and more time to play. Advertising is knocking minutes off every phase of household work from cooking to shopping, to give us leisure hours.

. . . and we're just using them as grandmother would have if she'd had the chance.

Read the advertising here in your paper.
It will bring more time to play.

DAYTON THERAPIST, CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Karns is survived by her husband, Jack Karns; four children, Donald E. Karns and Norman Karns, Dayton, Miss Jessie Virginia Karns, Kansas City, Mo., and Randolph Karns of New York City; her father, John Hughey, Dayton, and three brothers, William Hughey and Dudley Hughey of Dayton and B. L. of Xenia.

Mrs. Karns served with the United States army during the World War under Col. Wayne Babcock at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, and Fort Oglethrope, as occupational therapist and surgical artist. In 1920 she became associated with the National Military Home Hospital, Dayton, where she inaugurated the work of occupational therapy.

Aside from her occupational therapy work, Mrs. Karns was an artist in sculpturing and has done a great deal of painting in oils. She also has written a number of articles for Dayton newspapers, and was a member of both the Dayton Women's Clubs and the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the arrival of Mrs. Karns' daughter, Miss Jessie Virginia Karns, who has been appearing in concert numbers with the Seeman Players in Kansas City.

Mrs. Karns resided in Dayton for the last thirty-five years. Prior to coming to Dayton, she resided in Hillsboro and near Washington C. H. with her parents.

RUM BOAT SEIZED WITH LIQUOR STOCK

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31—Coast guard guns today halted a 28-foot rum boat and resulted in the capture of its pilot and cargo of twenty cases of Canadian whiskey off the Lake Erie shore at 185th Street here.

The pilot of the craft attempted to escape by jumping overboard, but he was hauled aboard the coast guard cutter with boat hooks. He said he left Kingsville, Ont., with his cargo last night. The rum running boat was licensed to a Cleveland man.

HUNTER ARRESTED

MARYSVILLE, O., Oct. 31.—Sylvester Shaw, a young farmer of Mill Creek Twp., was arrested on a charge of hunting rabbits and pheasants out of season. He was arraigned before a justice of the peace and was fined $25 and costs, which he paid.

WATCH OUT FOR THIS YOUNG LADY AT BIG HALLOWE'EN REVEL THURSDAY NIGHT

HALLOWE'EN comes Thursday night and everyone will try to make himself look more ridiculous than he already looks.

The night offers an opportunity for everyone to satisfy that school-day instinct that adult dignity makes impossible.

All you have to do is disguise yourself, mingle with the mob at the merchants' celebration, bury your inhibitions, and cut-up like a school-boy on a holiday.

The recipe is simple. If you have a long nose, get a false-face which has a short nose. If you are smooth-shaven, wear a mustache. If you are thin, pad yourself with pillows and if you are a fat man, dress up like a woman.

Having attired yourself in this manner, join in the Hallowe'en parade in the downtown section at 7:30 o'clock, and you may win one of the fifty prizes provided by the Xenia Retail Merchants Association for the evening's festivities.

Three bands will help the merry-makers make merry, and there will be contests on a platform at Main St., entrance of the Court House after the parade.

Whatever you do, don't try to have a flirtation with any-

GIRL SCOUTING IS EXPLAINED HERE BY REGIONAL OFFICER

"A Girl Scout program is not an athletic program, but it is a way of living," said Miss Ray Mitchell, regional director, before a group of about thirty mothers of Girl Scouts and other women interested in Girl Scout work at a dinner meeting at Xenia Central High School cafeteria, Wednesday evening.

"Girl Scouts do practice health rules. They have good times for they learn to swim, to be good campers, to hike, make trails. They learn about nature and many other interesting things," said Miss Mitchell. "Not only do they learn things which are playful, but they learn to be helpful, to cook, sew and use first aid. The Girl Scout soon becomes of help to her home, her friends and her community. She learns how to live a fuller and richer life," Miss Mitchell says.

"Girls who have demonstrated their ability to live the Girl Scout ideals become Eaglets. All others receive badges of merit from time to time, not as prizes, but as recognition of things they can do."

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock by members of the High School Girl Scout Troop, No. 1. Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, president of the organization, presided at the after dinner meeting.

During the afternoon Miss Mitchell talked to a large number of girls throughout the city, explaining what Girl Scouting is and does for the girl, her family and her community. Miss Mitchell came to this city with much enthusiasm and much inspiration was received from her talks.

LONDON, Oct. 31. —President Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Nationalist Chinese government, was at Hankow today ready to lead his troops against the rebel Kuaminghun forces, according to dispatches from the far east.

The president indicated he intends to head a general offensive against the rebels.

Other reports from Hankow stated a severe battle in progress for five days in the snow-bound country west of Kinhan was continuing with undiminished vigor.

MISSIONARY MEET ENDS SESSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.— The 4,000 delegates to the annual convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which closed here last night, today are leaving this city for their respective homes.

At a collection last night, the delegates raised $168,750. Of this amount, there were 112 personal checks for $1,000 each.

FEUD PROVES FATAL

CANTON, O., Oct. 31.—Holding a gambling feud as responsible for the death of James Dennis, 24, Coroner T. C. McQuate stated today that a second degree murder charge would be placed against Steve Stephens, 34. Dennis was fatally wounded Wednesday in Stephens' home here.

Justice Is Not Blind!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Justice is no longer dispensed by ignorant and individual domination. Another ancient prejudice stands convicted by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE which insists that a jury "twelve good men, tried and true" decide the facts.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which, in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

BABE NEEDS JOB, SAYS EDUCATOR

Even a three-month-old bady needs a job, says Dr. Helen T. Woolley, director of the Child Development Institute of Teachers college, Columbia university, New York. She explains that the special job of the wee babe is to learn to distinguish the faces of his parents from those of strangers, to discover its own tiny body and its surroundings. Dr. Woolley directs an experimental school for children of the well to do whose age range is from eighteen months to four years. Before going to Columbia, Dr. Woolley was psychologist at the Merrill Palmer school, Detroit.

PLANE TALK

By HARRY A. SUTTON
Of the Technical Staff, The Aviation Corporation
(Written Expressly for International News Service)

3.—How the Wing Functions.

Two primary forces are involved in the function of an airplane wing: its lift and the force necessary to pull it along fast enough (flying speed) to give it that lift.

By measuring the air's action about various shapes of wing in wind-tunnel tests, science has determined which wing contours are most efficient, i. e., which afford maximum lift with minimum power requirements.

For high speed, a thin wing, with little resistance (drag), has been found best. For load-carrying, the thick wing, with high life, is preferable. For general use, an efficient combination of the two has been devised.

Here we have a medium-thick wing, its under surface gently concaved (lower camber) and its upper surface convexed (upper camber) in a slightly more pronounced arc. Passing over these surfaces, the air not only supports the wings directly from underneath but, because of a partial vacuum, by suction from above.

This suction on the upper surface of the wing exerts a major part of the air's total lift on both surfaces, varying with different cambers and speeds.

Buchan—Courts of the Morning.

Mr. Buchan transports his veteran adventures of other tales to a South American state, which is fast becoming an oligarchy in the hands of the all powerful Castor, and which threatens the peace of the American continent. This story of mysterious adventure makes excellent reading.

Cleugh—Spring.

Two mothers, Mrs. Stanning of Boston and the Countess, Elna of Italy, have but a single thought; that of directing the affairs of the heart of their son and daughter. A charming story of young love in Italy. The Boston Transcript says of "Spring": "Very much at home in Italy is Mrs. Cleugh, exactly as she is in England and America. Her background in this story reminds one a little of the delicately etched work of Henry Harland when he wrote his novels of Italian life."

Burman—Mississippi.

Here are the real, living Mississippi people; pilots, negro roustabouts, candidates for assembly, poor white trash, a talkative barber, friendly judge, a dog, a cat—and a steamboat. It is the story of a river boy's loyalty, and the straits into which it leads him. The authoris on his own ground here, and can speak with fine understanding of the picturesque, unsophisticated inhabitants of the small river towns.

Tarkington—Growing Pains.

A story of the humorous tragedies of adolescence. The best book of its kind since Tarkington's "Seventeen", and one every father and mother who has a boy in his teens will chuckle over. A book too, in which every adult male reader will find his own salad days, written with humor and real insight into the curious psychology of the growing youth.

Chambers—Happy Parrot.

A tale of pirate ships, slave runners, a fair heroine and a valiant hero. The story is laid in the days of American shipping, preceding the war of 1812.

LADY IS HAPPY TO PAY TRIBUTE TO NEW KONJOLA

Relieved Of Obstinate Ailments—Praises New Medicine Highly.

"For years I suffered with stomach trouble", said Mrs. Dorothy Green, 14821 Lake Shore Boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio. "After every meal my stomach filled with gas and the pressure against my heart was very painful. The attacks of gastritis came over me without warning, and the pain was terrible. Then, too, I had a burning sensation in my stomach that was far from pleasant.

"But Konjola proved to be the very medicine I needed. Just as I was told it would do, Konjola worked quickly. After a few week's treatment of Konjola there was not a sign of my former stomach troubles. What a relief to be again; what a joy to be able to eat as a normal person should. I can readily understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends".

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

WILLIAM MARTIN, FORMER XENIAN, IS HOTEL FIRE VICTIM

William A. Martin, 54, member of a formerly well known Xenia family, lost his life in a fire which destroyed the Hotel Portland, Seattle, Wash., October 17, friends here have learned. He had made his home at the Hotel Portland during the two years he had lived in Seattle. He was unmarried. Seven persons met death in the hotel fire.

Mr. Martin was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John P. Martin of Xenia, and was born and spent his early life here. His father, who was well known in Ohio and in the East as a promoter of public utilities, was instrumental in obtaining for Xenia its water system in 1886. He also owned for a time, the city's first electric light plant, which was sold to him in 1887 after it had been municipally operated at a loss. He was a member of the old state board of public works under ex-Governor Campbell.

The son is survived by a brother and two sisters: John Martin of Fullerton, Cal., and the Misses Margaret and Nelle Martin, Washington, D. C. His burial took place in Seattle.

DR. CHARTERS WILL BE VESPER SPEAKER

Professor Lincoln R. Gibbs, of Antioch College, has announced that Dr. W. W. Charters, director of the bureau of educational research at Ohio State University, will be the speaker at the Antioch vesper service in the college chapel at Yellow Springs on Sunday, November 3, at five o'clock.

Dr. Charters has gained prominence in educational circles as one of the leading advocates of scientific research as a means of solving educational problems. In co-operation with Dr. Douglas Waples, of the University of Chicago, he recently published a voluminous study of the professional activities of teachers. The study was made at the suggestion of the Commonwealth Fund, which sponsored it, and is intended to help furnish a scientific basis for teacher training. It shows for the first time in accurate detail every step which goes into the teacher's work, and indicates the lines along which training should take place.

ADMITS BURGLARY OF EAST END HOME

Paul Estridge, 23, colored, Orchard St., arrested Wednesday by Patrolmen Charles Thompson and George Robinson, confessed, police say, to burglarizing the home of James Pace, colored, E. Market St., early Sunday morning and stealing a .38 caliber revolver, Spanish make, a watch, $6 in cash and a lodge pin. The pin was pawned at Dayton. Estridge broke into the house through a window, he said. An affidavit charging him with burglary and larceny is expected to be filed.

CLIFTON

The district Sabbath School convention was held at the Pitchin Church Sabbath afternoon. Large delegations from the two Clifton churches were in attendance.

Rev. Ralph Fox of the village Presbyterian Church will preach each evening this week at the Norris Memorial Presbyterian Church of Columbus and also on next Sabbath morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reed entertined Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neasler and daughter Margaret and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. Aden Barlow of Cedarville.

The community sale for the benefit of the Presbyterian Church amounted to $1500.

DECORATIONS TO AID HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

Half the fun of the Hallowe'en party is planning the decorations. You may make them all of paper, or you may use various other mediums. The colors are always the same—yellow, or rather orange—and black. The centerpiece pictured has witches and black cats surrounding the bowl of fruit. Ingeniously devised cats decorate the backs of the chairs. Pumpkin head hobgoblins would answer the same purpose. The combined place card and favor may be made by attaching the card to a roll of candy in orange paper with twisted petal ends. The entrance to the dining room may be effective with branches of trees draped with paper moss with cleverly made owls, black cats and witches guarding it. A jolly game to include in the evening's entertainment is Capturing the Owl. A balloon or large ball is used with the figure of an owl painted or pasted on it. The players sit in a circle and the one chosen to be "it" tries to capture the owl. The one from whom the capture is finally made is then "it."

GARDEN CLUB NOTES

Bulbs for the spring garden may be planted in November: they should be planted to a depth four times as great as the size of the bulb; to avoid rot, they should be laid on the side to prevent water soaking into the crown, and a pocket of sand should be placed around each bulb. Daffodils, which never grow so well in this country as in England, because of the more rigorous cold of our winters, like a moist, cool atmosphere, and in the summer should have some shade,—but they should be planted where, at the blooming season in the spring, they will be in the sun. The best fertilizers are bone meal and wood ashes, which should be used at only a moderate rate.

Last year the nurserymen gave warning that this season the price of bulbs would be higher; a prediction which has turned out to be true. American grown bulbs did not prove satisfactory, and the embargo on imported bulbs was lifted, but the trans-oceanic shipments were made in too warm weather, and millions of bulbs rotted, with something of a shortage as a result.

CAMP CHASE MYSTERY LETTERS ARE FINALLY BEING DELIVERED

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—"The Mystery Letters of Camp Chase" written to and by Confederate prisoners during the Civil War, 67 years ago, are at last being delivered.

The "mystery letters" are so-called because although most of them were posted in April, 1862, none was ever delivered to the addressee and no satisfactory explanation has been given as to why they were not. They were properly posted and, according to historians, compiled with all federal restrictions as to both length and content. They bore the "okay" of federal war-time censorship authorities, but still they never reached their destinations.

Go To Heirs

The letters are now being delivered—not to the original addressee, of course, but to sons, daughters, grandchildren and nieces and nephews who survive—through the efforts of the Ohio Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Scores of letters have been received by Mrs. Albert Sidney Porter, president of the Ohio division of the Daughters of the Confederacy, who is in charge of restoring the letters. More than seventy-five of the yellowed, frayed letters bearing faded marks of handwriting have already been turned over to their proper destination.

Although most of them were originally addressed to persons in Alabama, Louisiana, Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and Arkansas, the letters are finding their destinations now in scattered parts of the world.

One letter found its destination, Mrs. Sue Keller of Harrodsburg, Ky. She wrote Mrs. Porter that she is the daughter of Nimrod Harris.

"I am so excited over the prospect of getting those letters directed to my sainted father that I cannot guide my pen," she wrote, "especially as one of them was written to my precious mother, I am now 77 years old, so was quite a little girl when my father was put in prison; but I can remember the anguish of my lovely mother."

Written at Easter

Most of the "mystery letters" were apparently written on Easter Day, in 1862. For the most part they are concerned with assurances of the prisoner's health and safety and for the welfare of those at home.

One letter from Reese T. Wood bade his wife not to be grieved over his confinement.

"Do the best you can," he wrote. "You and the children must go ahead. I hope we may meet one time more in this life."

There are 240 of the "mystery letters." For some time they have been in the State Library at Columbus. By a joint resolution passed by the Ohio State Legislature on Lincoln's birthday, 1929, they were turned over to the Ohio Division of the Daughters of the Confederacy for the purpose of restoring them to the descendants of the persons who wrote them or to whom they were addressed.

A QUESTION ANSWERED

Oct. 30, 1929.

Editor Gazette,
Dear Sir:

Recently "Two Citizens of Xenia" were standing at the corner of Main and Detroit Sts., discussing the coming Community Chest Drive. One asked the other, "Why do they pay a woman a big salary to run the Social Service League when the money that goes to pay her salary could be used to buy food and clothing for people who are starving?" The other replied, "That's what I would like to know myself, and a whole lot of other people would too." They did not come to the Community Chest Headquarters in the City Building to get an answer to their question, but their conversation was overheard and drifted into headquarters. So, for the benefit of "Two Citizens of Xenia" and "a whole lot of other people", I would be very grateful if you will print the following in your paper.

In the first place this woman does not receive a big salary. I doubt very much if either of the "Two Citizens" would do the large amount of work and very helpful work the office requires for the recompense received.

Secondly, this one woman is the secretary of both the Social Service League and the Red Cross of America, combining the work of two secretarial positions in one office and for the salary of only one position.

And again, "Where are the people who are starving?"

Anyone who is in need will receive attention by calling at the Social Service and Red Cross office in the Dakin Bldg. By attention, please understand, I mean that their case will be investigated and if their cause is worthy I am certain that they will be given the proper assistance. If the "Two Citizens" or anyone knows of any family that they think have not been treated fairly, please call at the office where those in charge will be glad to show you what has been done for the family in question.

Today's charity problems call for someone to help people out, not to help them on. They call for a person who can educate the unfortunate to care for themselves, not to continually take care of them. They call for a person who can blend business notes with heart beats; one who knows when to give and what to give. The executive committee of the Community Chest is confident of the ability of the present secretary to do these things.

Very Sincerely Yours,
I. M. Hyman,
Sec. Ex. Committee
Xenia Community Chest.

Editor's Note: The executive committee will glady answer any questions pertaining to the Community Chest through the columns of The Gazette or by calling at Chest Headquarters in the City Building.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

VERNON RADCLIFFE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Not to be outdone by the legitimate theaters with their guilds and what-not, the air has its own Radio Guild now. It is headed by a famous director of ether dramas, Vernon Radcliffe. He is "the Belasco of the 'mike!'"

The Powers-that-be say it is only a matter of a short time until the shows on the air will be advertised as they are in the theater under such heads as "Vernon Radcliffe Production." And that they will run the "talkies" and the drama theaters a close race for popularity. Television, of course, will make that highly probable.

The writer, under an assumed name, arranged for a tryout in the air drama a few days ago. It was an interesting and enlightening experience. There were about two dozen excited men and women—some young, some old, waiting in the hall to go into the audition room. A gray-haired woman smiled:

"Aren't you just petrified. I've been on the stage thirty years and there's something about a 'mike' that slays my nerve. I know I'm going to simply babble. Did he give you anything to read?"

I informed the lady that I was slightly palpitating around the heart and that I hadn't the slightest idea what I was going to do. Finally, the door opened and my non de plume was called. Near the "mike" stood a young woman with a manuscript—and the director who was to hear the auditions was in the control room. It is enclosed in glass and he can watch the speaker. The voice comes out to the control room just as it goes out to the radio fans.

The manuscript was a scene in the park. A young lady was telling her artist lover that she knew it was hard for him to work when he wanted beauty and lovely things—but that he must try for her sake to be a success. After a few lines the director came out smiling:

"You've got a good radio voice, young lady. Now, no one is going to hurt you. Don't be afraid to put your heart and soul into every word. Remember there are millions out there hanging on your every word. They can't see you. It all depends upon you and the 'mike'."

Then he changed the manuscript to a horse race and I had a perfectly grand time imagining I had a lot of money up on a certain lovely horse and that he was winning! That was easier.

But, the director lets you leave the studio without any comment—and the young lady says:

"If you have passed the test you will be notified when needed."

Ah, that going home and waiting. Like taking an exam in school when you were a kid. (For your own secret information I did pass—and will be on the air in a drama very soon. More about this later.)

Veterans Find It Hard

Seasoned veterans of the stage become exasperated trying to keep their voices down—and getting the proper emotion for the "mike." That is the clever Mr. Radcliffe's job—seeing that when they are supposed to be outside the house talking they get far enough away and muffle their voices—and a thousand other things.

It is easier than a stage play in the respect that you don't have to learn your lines. They always are read. But there are a lot of other things that make being a performer on the air not so hotsy.

XENIA STUDENT ON WESLEYAN PAPER

Miss Eleanor McKay, 130 W. Church St., a junior at Ohio Wesleyan University, has been selected as a member of the general news staff of the Ohio Wesleyan Transcript, bi-weekly paper of the University. Only forty-six out of a list of almost 100 candidates were successful in the recent tryouts conducted by the editorial staff of the Transcript. Miss McKay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. McKay and is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Wins $75,000 for Thaw's Spanking

Marcia Estardus, Broadway entertainer, was awarded $75,000 by a jury in her suit against Harry K. Thaw, alleging assault. She had sued for $100,000, charging the Pittsburgh millionaire had beaten her with a hair brush in his apartment on New Years Day in 1927.

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

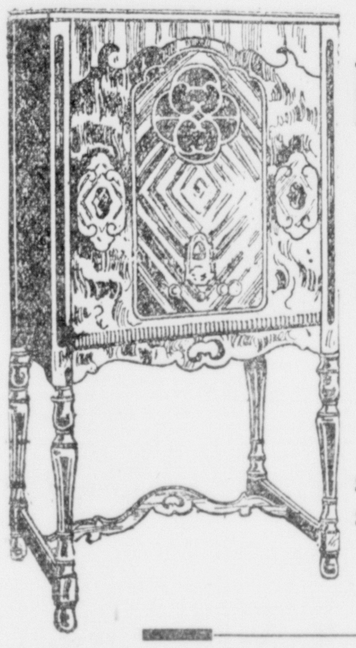

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers — especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

paper. Half-eaten sandwiches and half-consumed cans of coffee lay on tables. Occasionally, one saw played-out junior clerks fast asleep on counters.

The financial district was as brilliantly illuminated, almost, as Broadway. Lights blazed in the windows of the skyscrapers along the narrow canyons of Wall, Broad and Nassau Streets and lower Broadway. In contrast Trinity Church, dark as night, its spires piercing the sky, stood out like a lone sentinel guarding a bivouacked army.

Police officers, clad in "slickers" as protection against the light drizzle, paced to and fro in the vicinity of the stock exchange, and the half-lighted offices of J. P. Morgan and company directly across the street, and in front of the high pillared sub-treasury building, criss cornered from Morgans. Now and then a banker emerged from the Morgan office and stole into the night, perhaps to get a bite to eat.

Restaurants and speakeasies in the neighborhood were thronged. Waiters carrying loads of lunches picked their way through the narrow thoroughfares. Messenger boys on bicycles sped along the slippery pavements. The telegraph companies' offices remained open all night, as did many of the restaurants.

Automobiles by the hundreds, including many Rolls Royces, were parked along the curbs all over the financial district. Liveried chauffeurs sat patiently waiting for the "boss" to call it a day—or a night. Now and then workers emerged from the illuminated skyscrapers and scurried up the street and disappeared into one of the subway kiosks.

In the streets, as well as in practically every office in the district groups of men gathered and discussed the market as assiduously as politicians discuss the issues and the candidates while waiting for the returns on election night.

"Well, well, did you see where John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and his son were buying stocks?

"And what do you think of that 1 to 36-point jump in the market?"

Everybody seemed to be happier. More cheerful about their own personal fortunes and the welfare of their country. Whereas early in the week billions of dollars in market values had been wiped out, yesterday saw a gain of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 and the gloom and optimism which stalked through Wall Street Monday and Tuesday gave away to a conservative optimism and a feeling that better days are ahead.

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, the prettiest girl in the high school graduating class at Rendale, Pa., a mining and brick yard village, is stunned by the death of her widowed mother, the town seamstress. She is left penniless and totally unequipped to combat the world. The day after graduation Neil McKinley, her childhood playmate, who lived across the street, begins to show an interest in her for the first time in years. He has dates with her, and calls her his "new little sweetheart." After the death of Mrs. March, Kenessa Du Barry, formerly of Rendale, a burlesque actress, comes home to visit her mother, and offers Rosalie two dresses and half of her bankroll of fifteen dollars so that she may go to Philadelphia and find a job. Rosalie quarrels with Neil because he does not approve of Kenessa. She leaves without saying good-bye to him.

In the city Rosalie goes to Mother Murphy's boarding house. Mother has the heart of a saint, and takes her in as though she were a helpless baby.

Tim O'Hara, the corner newsie, tells Rosalie to go to a store advertising for girls when she asks him for a copy of the paper with the most ads in it. Tim, red-headed and freckled, falls in love with her and calls Rosalie "Queen."

The next morning, when Rosalie is to report for work, she discovers a "run" in her only pair of silk stockings. Heart sick, she puts on the old cotton ones.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

Ann Schultz had been at the Boggs and Clarke hosiery counter for four years.

Her chief woe was that a strict order had gone through that no one was allowed to chew gum. Old Peter Clarke had issued the boomerang himself.

Ann's remark when he strutted by importantly that day had been: "If you told that old buzzard to go jump in the lake he'd think you wanted him to show you some fancy divin'."

Plump and peroxided and in her early twenties was Ann. She was an unmerciful jollier. Sometimes new girls in the store found her quips quite painful until they got used to her. But nearly everyone liked her after they had known her awhile.

She had a sharp tongue—and was never averse to dishing a little dirt or tuning in on what-was-what among the employes. But mostly she was quite harmless.

Rosalie was early her first morning and stood around uncertainly, after having been shown where to punch the time clock and where she was to work. She was behind the counter when Ann breezed up.

"Hello, Helpful; you the new assist?"

"I'm she," Rosalie smiled timidly.

"My gawd. The kid's gone Tunney and got grammatical on us. If you're SHE that makes me IT."

Ann posed haughtily:

"Good mawning SHE!"

Rosalie answered gravely.

"Good morrow, IT."

They burst out laughing, and the ice was broken. But Rosalie, her mind constantly on her cotton stockings as Ann uncovered the counter and she saw the beautiful silken hose in all their temptation, could not smile again.

Ann always looked everyone over critically. She stared at Rosalie's chestnut hair, blue eyes and dimples and quite approved. The girl was a hot looker. The dress. It was certainly up to the minute—but a little too grown-up for the kid.

When Rosalie walked away and Ann got a look at her stockings she gasped. It couldn't be true! She rushed up to Rosalie and bent and felt her legs.

"Smother me black and blue—I didn't know they made 'em any more."

Her eyes stared at Rosalie incredulously.

"What have you got them awful stockings on for? Where'd you get 'em?"

Rosalie felt faint with embarrassment. She tried so hard to smile as though she didn't care.

"They're—they're some old ones I used to wear to school. All my silk ones had runs in them this morning when I put them on."

"Yeah," Ann grinned, not realizing how cruel she was being, "got cotton underwear on, too? Or red flannels?"

Rosalie did have a cotton chemise. Her face flamed until the red mounted to the roots of her hair. When she turned away and didn't answer, Ann laughed heartily at her own joke:

"Well, believe me, kid, Nobody in the store can say you ain't a good, decent respectable girl, anyway!"

A minute later Ann was penitent when she saw tears in Rosalie's eyes.

"Hello, Helpful, you the new assis t?"

"Gee, kid, I didn't mean to get your nanny like that. I didn't mean no harm. Come on, snap out of it. Sometimes I just try to be too funny."

Rosalie accepted her apology as gracefully as she could and squared her little jaw. This was no way to start her first day of work. Anyway she didn't have a lot of awful stuff on her hair that made it look like straw—and all that paint on her face! Suddenly she felt just a little superior to the plump Ann.

Ann stood by while she waited on the first few customers and when they weren't busy she told her about the stock. She was surprised to see how quickly the new girl caught on.

A girl came from another counter that wasn't so busy to relieve them at noon.

"Come on, beautiful," Ann said then, "let's put on the feed bag."

Rosalie had intended going without lunch. But Ann added:

"There's a cafeteria upstairs where you can get a swell sandwich and coffee for fifteen cents. We all go there."

It was painful for Rosalie to step from behind the counter and display her cotton hose. Ann knew that was what was worrying her and put an arm around her.

"Ah, you're fussin' about the crack I made about your stockings. Forget it. Nobody'll see 'em, besides, it ain't against the law, is it?"

As Ann and Rosalie moved around the rail in the cafeteria Rosalie turned just in time to see Ann point to her stockings. Ann blushed—which was rare for her—and Rosalie almost stumbled to their table with her sandwich and coffee.

She felt that every eye in the room was upon her. Of course, the shiny silk dress was a tremendous contrast to the old school-day hosiery. Ann tried to cover her faux pas with inane chatter—but Rosalie felt little relief. She didn't see how she could possibly get through the day.

She had only a dollar and a half left. That she would have to save for lunch and carfare until the end of the week. If she didn't go to lunch Ann would be sure to kid her about that—and Rosalie would never admit she hadn't money enough.

Hundreds of lovely stockings danced before her eyes. There were lights shining on the sheer silk to make it look more sheer and more tempting to the daughters of Eve that came in a constant stream to the counter.

Suddenly an idea popped into Rosalie's head and almost dizzied her. She cast it away but it persisted. Why not take a pair of the hose and put the money in the till Saturday?

All week long with the stares and giggles of the hundreds of girls in the store would drive her mad.

Broadway Beauty

Inez Norton, sweetheart of the late Arnold Rothstein, who will appear on the Broadway stage shortly in a play called "Dark Hands," now in rehearsal. When Rothstein was king of gamblers and reputed financial lord of the underworld, Inez Norton was the uncrowned queen. After Rothstein's murder she attempted to collect for his estate some of the vast sums owed him. In his will, which was afterwards disputed, Rothstein made ample provision for her.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

Alice Brady as "Anna" and Otto Kruger as "Karl" carry the play "Karl and Anna" by Leonhard Frank, the German, as produced by the New York Theater Guild, if the opinions of the reviewers may be believed.

The Guild is pleasing the Gotham critics with their present piece, and that's a difficult assignment. The depressed desire of soldiers and the wives they left behind them are psychoanalyzed in the play, in which Frank has torn a dozen or so pages from Freud and bespattered them with the mud of the trenches. Superb acting of Miss Brady and Kruger make the play, as presented, what it is.

Based on the general premise that the soldier thinks more of women than of death, "Karl and Anna" thus takes issue with another psychological war play, "Journey's End" Karl and his friend Richard are fellow German prisoners in a Russian camp. Richard is forever glorifying his wife, Anna. He tells of her beauty, her virtues and of domestic details until Karl feels that he knows Anna as well as Richard—and better.

"Would you let me kiss Anna just once when we get back home", pleads Karl.

"Maybe I will let you kiss her once", finally agrees Richard. "But if there were ever a second time I should kill you."

* * *

Karl escapes from the prison camp and goes immediately to the wife of Richard. It is a strange psychological scene when they meet. They have never seen each other before but something within each draws them together.

"I am Richard, your husband", whispers Karl.

"How can you say such a thing, you know you are not", protests Anna.

"You know you have been waiting for me for years and I have known you always", declares Karl.

A smug, dirty Richard shuffles into the tidy, comfortable Berlin home that he has dreamed about in the muck of the trenches. He is surprised to meet Karl entering the door, embraces him and invited him to wait for Anna and then stay for dinner. Anna returns. She and Karl tell Richard they love each other. Richard seizes an axe and rushes at Karl. Anna throws herself before the weapon. Richard slumps down on the bed.

"You may have Anna", he mutters to Karl.

That it is the outside of the triangle of the trenches. But it is the inside of the three souls involved which makes it a play to see, or rather feel.

One nice thing about Nancy Carroll is that she is always pleasing to look at and anyone who doesn't agree is just an old meanie.

If Baby has COLIC

A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

"I am so happy"

—that the last pimple is gone"

You may be happy, too!

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.
